German Spies

French Capital

By GLADWIN HILL
Paris, Sept. 8 (Delayed) (AP)—Paris is a lovely place. The people are most cordial and hospitable. But you still have to keep your dukes up.

A blonde young lady at a cocktail party was very pleasant, spoke both English and French expertly, said she was an American who had married a Frenchman, and chatted about this and that.

"Oh, I'm still so afraid of German bombers," she said. "I wish they wouldn't take the anti-aircraft guns away."

"Who said anything about taking them away?" I asked.

"Well, there was one right near my house and it's gone," she replied.

Too Inquisitive
I suggested that anti-aircraft batteries often change positions.

"But then why have all the boys left the hotel where they were billeted?" she asked—a little too directly.

Later she sighed and said she had a lot of cousins in the United States Army whom she hadn't seen for years. Was there any way she could find out if they were here, she wondered.

She volunteered names—some named Johnson, some named Moore, then one with a very unusual name.

I suggested that the Army paper Stars and Stripes, might help.

"Oh, I've asked and they say they can't," she replied—just a little too quickly.

You may not realize it, but you have just listened to the conversation of a spy—practically page 10 in the textbook.

The young lady may or may not have been a spy, but she gave a perfect example of somebody trying to find out about troop movements. The whereabouts of her odd-named "cousin" might have pinned down a whole division.

Many Nazis Present
Thousands of these innocent-sounding conversations have been launched—but not all finished when the subjects are wary—in Paris in the last fortnight.

There is no doubt that many Nazi agents are here. French officials have warned the public against people with German accents who claim they come from the border of Alsace-Lorraine.

Why, would the Germans plunging to defeat, would anyone continue to help them? Maybe fanatical Nazi loyalty, maybe in hope of escaping from the rapidly tightening French surveillance, maybe just to pick up bits of money.

Thousands of GIs have been asked disarmingly, "where do you come from in the United States?" Then come the snappers, "how long have you been in France?", "where did you land?", "how did you come here?"

Simple—but just the sort of simple questions an intelligence officer asks an enemy prisoner.

Seek Autographs
Hundreds of soldiers have been amazed by Parisians' interest in hauling out autograph books for them to sign. Some of the ingratiating interviewers don't care about the signatures; it's only to lead up to, "Oh, don't just sign your name—write your unit under it, too."

Germany may be tottering, but the arm of its military intelligence is still long.

Miss Kadel Will Study At Columbia

Miss Lois Kadel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kadel, 415 West Middle street, will leave next Monday for New York where she is enrolled at the Union Theological seminary of Columbia university. There she will pursue the sacred music course leading to a degree in that field with pipe organ as her major.

For the last four years Miss Kadel was supervisor of music in the public schools of Everett, Pa. She was graduated from the State Teachers' college at West Chester in 1940.

Presbyterian S.S.
Plans Rally Day

Rally and Promotion Day exercises will be combined Sunday morning, October 8, at the local Presbyterian Sunday school, it was decided Tuesday evening at the first fall meeting of the officers and teachers of the school held in the pastor's study at the church. E. Donald Scott, the general superintendent, presided.

The group ordered a set of wall maps of the Holy Land for use in school work and arranged for an illustrated lecture on "How to Improve my Teaching" at the next meeting of the group on October 10.

The resignation of Miss Edith Carbaugh as assistant librarian and substitute teacher in the primary department was accepted with regret. Miss Carbaugh has enrolled at Indiana State Teachers' college.

MRS. SANDERS
DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME HERE

Mrs. Harriet E. Sanders, 78, wife of Dr. Charles F. Sanders, retired head of the philosophy department at Gettysburg college, and a leader in church and community organizations for many years, died suddenly at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at her home, 135 West Broadway. Coronary occlusion caused death.

Mrs. Sanders had been suffering from a heart ailment for the last two years but had been in her usual health recently. Over last week-end she accompanied her husband to Lewistown where he supplied the pulpit of St. John's Lutheran church. They returned home Monday evening.

She was taken ill after the evening meal Tuesday. Death occurred 15 minutes after she was stricken and before a physician could reach the Sanders home.

Typed Husband's Books
The deceased was born in Adams county, near Harney, Md., and was a daughter of the late Abram and Anne Caroline Hesson. She and Doctor Sanders were married December 27, 1894, while he was a student at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary. They resided in Avonmore and Blairsville, Pa., during Doctor Sanders' pastorates at churches there and she accompanied her husband to Leipzig university where he studied for a year and a half. Doctor and Mrs. Sanders made a trip around the world together from July 1928, to February, 1929.

The Sanders came to Gettysburg in 1906 and resided on East High street and Springs avenue until they built and moved into their Broadway home more than a quarter century ago.

Mrs. Sanders served as typist for her husband in his work as a translator of religious works and as an author on theological and philosophical subjects. His last work was "An Outline for an Orientation Course" in 1935. Some of the better known works with which Mrs. Sanders helped were the translation of Jerusalem's "Introduction to Philosophy" and "The Taproot of Religion" of which Doctor Sanders was the author.

Active In Community
Mrs. Sanders was for many years an active member of the Women's Missionary society of Christ Lutheran church and was a past president. She was a former member of the board of directors of the Gettysburg YWCA and had served for several years as board president.

She also was a former president of the local chapter of the Woman's League of Gettysburg college and was one of the sponsors of the Chi Omega sorority.

During the last year and a half Doctor and Mrs. Sanders had lived in Lewistown where he supplied the pulpit of St. John's Lutheran church while his pastor was absent on duty as a chaplain in the armed forces. They returned to their home here in June. The trip to Lewistown last Sunday was made because Doctor Sanders' successor at Lewistown was called away to perform a wedding ceremony and the Gettysburg minister was asked to return to the pulpit for that Sunday.

Services Friday
Mrs. Sanders' survivors are her husband; two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Horner, Baltimore street, and Mrs. George P. Eyler, Yakima, Wash., and a number of nephews and nieces.

Funeral services from the Sanders home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putnam, her pastor, officiating. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Friends may call at the home Thursday afternoon or evening.

Motor Corps Unit
Will Meet Friday

Mrs. Glenn L. Bream, chairman of the motor corps of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, announced today that an organizational meeting of the corps will be held at the Red Cross headquarters, Baltimore street, Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

It will be the first meeting of the group and while 16 members already have been enrolled in the corps, any other interested women are invited to attend, Mrs. Bream said.

Arthur Buehler will be the instructor for the motor mechanics course and will teach a course in first aid work. The motor corps has been organized to provide for the transportation needs of the Red Cross, including service during disaster, relief, transportation of hospital cases, and duty at blood donor banks.

Local Sergeant And Bride

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Carl E. Oyler are shown leaving the chapel at the Presidio Army post, San Francisco, after their marriage there on Saturday evening, August 5. Sergeant Oyler, who serves with the Signal Corps, and his bride, a civilian employee of the same unit, visited here recently enroute to Washington, D. C., where both have been transferred. Sergeant Oyler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Oyler, 414 York street. Mrs. Oyler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Earl Allen, Roanoke, Va.

Fund Donations

According to a statement received from the state office of the Pennsylvania War Fund, $198.16 was sent direct to them by residents of Gettysburg and Adams county, in addition to the amount received in the annual drive last year.

Of this amount $19 was specified for Near East Relief, $103 for China Children's fund and $76.16 for United China Relief. Of this latter amount $25 was given by Christ Lutheran Sunday school and $39.16 by the Gettysburg Ministerium.

PFC. R. K. SHULL
KILLED AUG. 7

Pfc. Richard K. Shull, 20-year-old infantryman, was killed in action in France August 7. The War Department informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Shull, Hummelstown.

Mrs. Shull's brother, Pvt. Clair Richwine, of Gardners R. D., was killed in France in World War I, and the most remembered comment of Private Shull was, "I suppose I'll be following in his footsteps."

The Hummelstown soldier was employed by the Bethlehem Steel company before he was inducted in May, 1943. He was trained at Camp Shelby, Miss., and Fort Meade, Md., before he was sent overseas last May.

Survivors in addition to his parents, are: Four brothers, Sgt. Ralph C. Shull, in France; Seaman First Class Edward H. Shull, South Pacific; Harold and Samuel Shull, at home; and nine sisters, Mrs. Harry, Mrs. Zimmerman, Leah, Sarah, Patricia, Grace, Mabel and Marge, all at home, and Mrs. Elwood Krodel, Hershey, and a step-sister, Mrs. Maybelle Wolf, Gardners R. D.

C. E. UNION TO

The annual fall retreat of the Adams County Christian Endeavor Union will be held Sunday, October 1, in the Lutheran church, Fairfield, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The theme for the retreat will be "Christ Is the Answer."

Conferences will be held in the afternoon under the leadership of Miss Myrtle Raffensperger, Biglerville; Kenneth Bean, Gardners; Charles L. Lott, Gettysburg R. D., and Frank Patsche and Ernest Leer of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary.

The speaker for the evening session will be the Rev. George S. Stoneback, pastor of the Mennonite church.

Miss Mildred Coshun, Gettysburg R. D., is the chairman of the committee making arrangements and is being assisted by Kenneth Bean and Claude Stoner, Fairfield.

Weather Forecast

Rain tonight and probably Thursday; temperatures will continue cool.

Here And There
News Collected At Random

J. W. Heagy, of Bear Aspers, who observed his 66th birthday on June 17, has submitted an interesting study of the Bible.

Mr. Heagy says that he started to make a study of the Bible about four years ago, counting the words, verses, letters, chapters and other items. He asserts that his figures are accurate. He said that he found the following:

3,566,489 letters; 773,746 words; 31,173 verses; 1,172 chapters.

That the word "God" appears 3,295 times; "Lord" 1,855 times; "Love" 337 times; "And" 46,277 times; "The" 60,755 times; "Of" 31,674 times; "I" 8,445 times; "Boy" and "Girl" once each; both in the third chapter of Job, third verse and that the word "Grayhound" appears once, that being in the 30th chapter of Proverbs, 31st verse.

Mr. Heagy evidently spent considerable time making the study. A little mathematical computation reveals that had he counted 60 letters per minute (fast reading for accurate checking purposes), he would have spent 59,441 minutes to determine the number of letters in the Bible . . . or 990 hours.

One of our readers submits this:

"I would like to know the sentiments of the public in general as to whom is entitled to display service flags in their homes."

"I was very proud of the three-star flag in our window (as we have three sons in the service) until a neighbor put a four-star flag in their window, and I know they have neither sons nor daughters in the service."

"I do not think any one is entitled to display service flags unless they have sons, daughters, husband or wife in the service. At least, I think it would be only fair of them not to display service flags."

SC 3-c C. Richard "Dick" Knox, a former employee of The Gettysburg Times, now with the Navy somewhere in England, writes a posthumous tribute to the late Horace Mann Bushman. "Dick" writes:

"I just received word of Bush's death . . . the news hit me pretty hard . . . he was one of the best friends I ever had . . . haven't seen him for two years . . . during the four years I worked with him in the Times' shop we became very good friends . . . the staff and anyone who helped should be proud of the wonderful tribute paid him . . . he was a swell guy . . . I know I'm proud to be able to say that I was his friend . . . I know we are all going to miss him, because to know him was to like him."

MORE LEADERS
FOR WAR FUND
DRIVE NAMED

Selection of additional area leaders to direct the War Fund campaign in their respective sections of Adams county were announced today by county USO officials.

Howard Musselman of the Orrtanna Canning company will serve as area chairman for the western part of the county including the Seven Stars, McKnightstown, Cash-town, Buchanan Valley, Orrtanna, Fairfield and Zora sections.

The Rev. Kenneth D. James, Littlestown, who is a member of the board of directors of the USO in this county, will serve as campaign chairman for the Littlestown area.

Alvin M. Jones, New Oxford, also a member of the board of directors, will head the canvass in the New Oxford, East Berlin and Abbottstown sections.

May Meet Thursday

The drive for $29,959 in this county is being directed by Paul A. Kinsey, who is serving his second year as USO campaign chairman for this county. The preliminary work for the campaign already is well underway although the house-to-house canvass will not be opened until October 15 and will be concluded by November 1.

The appointments announced today by Chairman Kinsey and Dean W. E. Tilberg, head of the USO organization in the county, nearly completes the campaign staff for the drive. Sectional captains are now being listed and they in turn will select one of the largest staffs of house-to-house canvassers ever used in any fund raising effort in this county.

A meeting of the area leaders has tentatively been set for Thursday evening when exact limits of the various campaign divisions will be marked on a county map and other preparatory work will be advanced.

Memorial Service
For Pvt. Spertzel

A memorial service for Pvt. Ira E. Spertzel, 25, who was killed July 31 in France, will be held at the Idaville Evangelical church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Pvt. Spertzel, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Spertzel, York Springs R. 2, entered the service June 1, 1942, and went overseas six months later.

His widow and son, Edward R., reside on Carlisle R. 4.

SOROPTIMISTS
AT 1ST MEET

The Soroptimist club of Gettysburg held its first meeting of the fall Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Blocher, immediate past president, with the new president, Miss Florence Basehoar of Littlestown, presiding.

Officers and committees that served for the last 15 months presented reports showing that the club spent $769 in community and charitable activities in that time. Receipts totaled $825 in the same period.

Miss Basehoar asked committee chairmen to hold early meetings of their committees to make plans for the year's work and to prepare reports for an executive board meeting which has been set for September 28. Accounts of the national Soroptimist convention at St. Louis were distributed to the club women. A special welcome was given Mrs. Anna Bierer, who attended her first club session in a number of months.

Mrs. John Bachensky was made chairman of the committee on arrangements for the next dinner meeting. The other members are Mrs. Clyde Daley and Miss Virginia Myers.

Eighteen members attended the meeting.

Women Of Moose
Initiate Member

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose was held Tuesday evening at the Moose home with Senior Regent Fern Myers presiding.

About 25 members were present and one candidate was initiated. Virginia Lauver was in charge of the program during which she read a poem, "A Soldier Speaks," and the entire chapter sang songs.

All officers and escorts are requested to wear white gowns for the next regular meeting September 28.

Four Columns Are
Advancing Deeper
Into Third Reich

By JAMES M. LONG

London, Sept. 13 (AP)—Powerful American reinforcements rolled today into double invasions of Germany carrying within 37 miles of the Rhine, while two or more other U. S. columns beat to or near the frontier of the Reich's war-gauged "holy soil."

Supreme headquarters imposed security silence on the two lunges of the U. S. First Army which cracked across the Nazi border from Luxembourg to northwest of Trier, and from Belgium east of Eupen. But fresh forces were being poured into these thrusts 65 miles apart.

Other First Army forces struck 15 miles beyond Bastogne into the northern tip of Luxembourg, reaching near Clerveaux, three miles south of Germany. This was the biggest disclosed gain of the day.

A front dispatch told of a lightning, 60-minute thrust from Aumetz to the Our river border of Luxembourg and Germany and within a mile of the Siegfried line. This presumably referred to the U. S. Third Army, separate from the force at Clerveaux.

Moves Kept Secret

Still another threat of more crossings into Germany was posed by Americans who captured Malmady, 13 miles below Eupen, and eight miles from the Belgian-German border.

There was no news of the invasion northwest of Trier since the initial announcement it had carried five miles into Germany. Nor were there disclosures of the crossing 65 miles to the north, beyond announcement it had gone six miles east of Eupen. Here the Americans were within 10

Siegfried Wall
Outpost Seized

London, Sept. 13 (AP)—The German radio said tonight that the "Americans have captured an outpost of the west wall," but did not specify where the Siegfried Line had been penetrated.

The report said a German Grenadier counterattack halted the forward momentum of the drive. The context of the dispatch suggested that the action might have been east of the Verviers-Eupen sector of Belgium, where the United States First Army was reported about 10 miles south of the German communication city of Aachen.

The Germans said Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's United States Third Army had thrust across the Moselle river south of Nancy and was driving toward Lunenburg in a great offensive "aimed at forcing the entire Moselle line on a broad front."

"Bitter fluctuating fighting is in progress, especially south of Nancy," the enemy said.

miles south of Aachen, a Siegfried line stronghold.

Supreme headquarters announced the Germans have hurled two counterattacks against American forces, one of which the First Army beat down in the vicinity of Limbourg, east of Liege, and a second which the Third Army was reported holding along the west bank of the Moselle river across from Corny, eight miles south of Metz.

The American Ninth Army has taken its place in the operations command in France, it was announced today, alongside the U. S. First, Third and Seventh Armies making the mightiest American force ever assembled on one fighting front.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson is commanding the Ninth Army, the announcement said. It was not disclosed immediately in what sector the Ninth Army was operating nor its relation to the overall command setup.

A warning that the full fury of modern war, which the Nazis have visited on the rest of the continent, now was about to break over the German homeland came from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Declaring "the battle of Germany is about to begin," the Allied commander-in-chief advised inhabitants of the Ruhr and Rhineland to withdraw immediately as those areas soon would become a theater of war.

In the area east of Liege United States First Army units drove at least six miles beyond the Belgian border city of Eupen yesterday and plunged into Germany. This operation, the second penetration of the Reich in less than 24 hours, carried to a point 10 miles south and slightly east of Aachen.

Moderate Opposition
The new penetration, described in a front dispatch as a "reconnaissance in force," was made by strong American armored elements which drove in from the west. Lt. Col. William B. Lovelady, of Soddy, Tenn., commanded this force of medium tanks, infantry and engineers.

The second crossing of the German border was 65 miles north and slightly west of the original invasion pathway taken by other American First Army units which swept

Red Troops Reported
Ready To Enter Sofia

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Moscow, Sept. 13 (AP)—Powerful Russian tank forces and Romanian infantry emerged today from the western foothills of Transylvania and fought for control of the rail network radiating from Timisoara, 40 miles south of the pre-war Hungarian border and 75 miles north of the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade.

(The Paris radio said the Red Army had reached the outskirts of Sofia and that the Bulgarian capital was preparing a reception, having arrested all members of the former pro-Nazi government.)

Marshal Malinovsky's offensive was rolling forward during his brief absence to sign an armistice with Romania in Moscow and his Russian sians approached within 25 miles of Cluj, capital of central Transylvania and largest Romanian city still in enemy hands. He broke a permanent fortified line which the Hungarians had been building since 1940 when Hitler awarded them the northern half of the Romanian province.

Lonza Encircled
His drive also directly threatened Arad, another important rail center 10 miles from Hungarian soil on the north bank of the Mures river. Cluj is a city of 100,000; Timisoara 90,000 and Arad 76,000.

Battle reports from north Poland said the major rail center of Lonza, 20 miles below East Prussia, was virtually encircled. The Germans were leaving a double-decker mine field to cover their slow retreat and were counterattacking sporadically with tanks and self-propelled guns, but Gen. G. F. Zakharov steadily gained ground.

(The German communique said today that Lonza has been "given up.")

The battle in the Balkans for Transylvania now is becoming a campaign to envelop Serbia (southern Yugoslavia) from the north and reach the Tisza river, which flows north and south across the heart of the Hungarian plain, one of Hitler's major bread baskets.

At midnight, the Kremlin announced the capture of Deva, 85 miles from Hungary.

In capturing Deva, Russian and Romanian forces advanced 36 miles from Petroseni. The thrust gave them a firm grip on the main highway and railway into Budapest from Romania. The Cluj-bound spearhead seized Alud, 30 miles to the south.

Front reports said the campaign was meeting stiff but sporadic German and Hungarian resistance.

Almost half of Transylvania now has been conquered. About 12,000 square miles remain unclear.

Near Merger With Tito
To the south the Red Army appeared to be on the verge of joining up with Marshal Tito's partisan forces in Yugoslavia. A group of Soviet war correspondents was said to have left Moscow expecting to witness the junction.

The Red Army was fighting a hard battle with the Germans just south of the East Prussian border, but the daily Soviet communique gave few details. The Russians closing in on Lonza, gateway city to lower East Prussia, were meeting the most difficult kind of resistance from large German tank and artillery forces.

(The Soviet communique, one of the shortest in months, remained silent about broadcast German reports that gigantic new concentrations of Red Army troops and guns had begun a supreme drive aimed at breaking into East Prussia.

Moscow likewise said nothing about the Warsaw sector. The Germans have reported a concentrated attack on the outer approaches to Praga, eastern suburb of the Polish capital.)

Of this amount $19 was specified for Near East Relief; $103 for China Children's fund and $76.16 for United China Relief. Of this latter amount $25 was given by Christ Lutheran Sunday school and $39.16 by the Gettysburg Ministerium.

PFC. R. K. SHULL
KILLED AUG. 7

Pfc. Richard K. Shull, 20-year-old infantryman, was killed in action in France August 7. The War Department informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Shull, Hummelstown.

Mrs. Shull's brother, Pvt. Clair Richwine, of Gardners R. D., was killed in France in World War I, and the most remembered comment of Private Shull was, "I suppose I'll be following in his footsteps."

The Hummelstown soldier was employed by the Bethlehem Steel company before he was inducted in May, 1943. He was trained at Camp Shelby, Miss., and Fort Meade, Md., before he was sent overseas last May.

Survivors in addition to his parents, are: Four brothers, Sgt. Ralph C. Shull, in France; Seaman First Class Edward H. Shull, South Pacific; Harold and Samuel Shull, at home; and nine sisters, Mrs. Harry, Mrs. Zimmerman, Leah, Sarah, Patricia, Grace, Mabel and Margery, all at home, and Mrs. Elwood Krodell, Hershey, and a step-sister, Mrs. Maybelle Wolf, Gardners R. D.

C. E. UNION TO

The annual fall retreat of the Adams County Christian Endeavor Union will be held Sunday, October 1, in the Lutheran church, Fairfield, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The theme for the retreat will be "Christ Is the Answer."

Conferences will be held in the afternoon under the leadership of Miss Myrtle Raffensperger, Biglerville; Kenneth Bean, Gardners; Charles L. Lott, Gettysburg R. D.; and Frank Patsche and Ernest Leer of the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary.

The speaker for the evening session will be the Rev. George S. Stoneback, pastor of the Mennonite church.

Miss Mildred Cochran, Gettysburg R. D., is the chairman of the committee making arrangements and is being assisted by Kenneth Bean and Claude Stoner, Fairfield.

Weather Forecast

Rain tonight and probably Thursday; temperatures will continue cool.

Here And There
News Collected At Random

J. W. Heagy, of near Aspers, who observed his 86th birthday on June 17, has submitted an interesting study of the Bible.

Mr. Heagy says that he started to make a study of the Bible about four years ago, counting the words, verses, letters, chapters and other items. He asserts that his figures are accurate. He said that he found the following:

3,566,489 letters; 773,746 words; 31,173 verses; 1,172 chapters.

That the word "God" appears 3,295 times; "Lord" 1,855 times; "Love" 337 times; "And" 46,277 times; "The" 60,755 times; "Of" 31,674 times; "I" 8,445 times; "Boy" and "Girl" once each, both in the Third chapter of Joel, third verse and that the word "Grayhound" appears once, that being in the 30th chapter of Proverbs, 31st verse.

Mr. Heagy evidently spent considerable time making the study. A little mathematical computation reveals that had he counted 60 letters per minute (fast reading for accurate checking purposes), he would have spent 59,441 minutes to determine the number of letters in the Bible . . . or 990 hours.

One of our readers submits this:

"I would like to know the sentiments of the public in general as to whom is entitled to display service flags in their homes.

"I was very proud of the three-star flag in our window (as we have three sons in the service) until a neighbor put a four-star flag in their window, and I know they have neither sons nor daughters in the service."

"I do not think any one is entitled to display service flags unless they have sons, daughters, husband or wife in the service. At least, I think it would be only fair of them not to display service flags."

SC 3-c C. Richard "Dick" Knox, a former employee of The Gettysburg Times, now with the Navy somewhere in England, writes a posthumous tribute to the late Horace Mann Bushman. "Dick" writes:

"I just received word of Bush's death . . . the news hit me pretty hard . . . he was one of the best friends I ever had . . . haven't seen him for two years . . . during the four years I worked with him in the Times' shop we became very good friends. The staff and anyone who helped should be proud of the wonderful tribute paid him . . . he was a swell guy . . . I know I'm proud to be able to say that I was his friend . . . I know we are all going to miss him, because to know him was to like him."

MORE LEADERS
FOR WAR FUND
DRIVE NAMED

Selection of additional area leaders to direct the War Fund campaign in their respective sections of Adams county were announced today by county USO officials.

Howard Musselman of the Orrtanna Canning company will serve as area chairman for the western part of the county including the Seven Stars, McKnightstown, Cash-town, Buchanan Valley, Orrtanna, Fairfield and Zora sections.

The Rev. Kenneth D. James, Littlestown, who is a member of the board of directors of the USO in this county, will serve as campaign chairman for the Littlestown area. Alvin M. Jones, New Oxford, also a member of the board of directors, will head the canvass in the New Oxford, East Berlin and Abbottstown sections.

May Meet Thursday

The drive for $29,959 in this county is being directed by Paul A. Kinsey, who is serving his second year as USO campaign chairman for this county. The preliminary work for the campaign already is well underway although the house-to-house canvass will not be opened until October 15 and will be concluded by November 1.

The appointments announced today by Chairman Kinsey and Dean W. E. Tilberg, head of the USO organization in the county, nearly completes the campaign staff for the drive. Sectional captains are now being listed and they in turn will select one of the largest staffs of house-to-house canvassers ever used in any fund raising effort in this county.

A meeting of the area leaders has tentatively been set for Thursday evening when exact limits of the various campaign divisions will be marked on a county map and other preparatory work will be advanced.

Memorial Service
For Pvt. Spertzel

A memorial service for Pvt. Ira E. Spertzel, 25, who was killed July 31 in France, will be held at the Idlewild Evangelical church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Pvt. Spertzel, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Spertzel, York Springs R. 2, entered the service June 1, 1942, and went overseas six months later.

His widow and son, Edward R., reside on Carlisle R. 4.

SOROPTIMISTS
AT 1ST MEET

The Soroptimist club of Gettysburg held its first meeting of the fall Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Blocher, immediate past president, with the new president, Miss Florence Basehoar of Littlestown, presiding.

Officers and committees that served for the last 15 months presented reports showing that the club spent $769 in community and charitable activities in that time. Receipts totaled $825 in the same period.

Miss Basehoar asked committee chairmen to hold early meetings of their committees to make plans for the year's work and to prepare reports for an executive board meeting which has been set for September 28. Accounts of the national Soroptimist convention at St. Louis were distributed to the club women. A special welcome was given Mrs. Anna Bierer, who attended her first club session in a number of months.

Mrs. John Bachensky was made chairman of the committee on arrangements for the next dinner meeting. The other members are Mrs. Clyde Daley and Miss Virginia Myers.

Eighteen members attended the meeting.

Women Of Moose
Initiate Member

The regular meeting of the Women of the Moose was held Tuesday evening at the Moose home with Senior Regent Fern Myers presiding.

About 25 members were present and one candidate was initiated. Virginia Lauver was in charge of the program during which she read a poem, "A Soldier Speaks," and the entire chapter sang songs.

All officers and escorts are requested to wear white gowns for the next regular meeting September 26.

Four Columns Are
Advancing Deeper
Into Third Reich

By JAMES M. LONG

London, Sept. 13 (AP)—Powerful American reinforcements rolled today into double invasions of Germany carrying within 37 miles of the Rhine, while two or more other U. S. columns beat to or near the frontier of the Reich's war-gauged "holy soil."

Supreme headquarters imposed security silence on the two lunges of the U. S. First Army which cracked across the Nazi border from Luxembourg to northwest of Trier, and from Belgium east of Eupen. But fresh forces were being poured into these thrusts 65 miles apart.

Other First Army forces struck 15 miles beyond Bastogne into the northern tip of Luxembourg, reaching near Clervaux, three miles from Germany. This was the biggest disclosed gain of the day.

A front dispatch told of a lightning, 60-minute thrust from Aumetz to the Our river border of Luxembourg and Germany and within a mile of the Siegfried line. This presumably referred to the U. S. Third Army, separate from the force at Clervaux.

Moves Kept Secret

Still another threat of more crossings into Germany was posed by Americans who captured Malmédy, 13 miles below Eupen, and eight miles from the Belgian-German border.

There was no news of the invasion northwest of Trier since the initial announcement it had carried five miles into Germany. Nor were there disclosures of the crossing 65 miles to the north, beyond announcement it had gone six miles east of Eupen. Here the Americans were within 10 miles south of Aachen, a Siegfried line stronghold.

Supreme headquarters announced the Germans have hurled two counterattacks against American forces, one of which the First Army beat down in the vicinity of Limbourg, east of Liege, and a second which the Third Army was reported holding along the west bank of the Moselle river across from Corny, eight miles south of Metz.

The American Ninth Army has

sians approached within 25 miles of Cluj, capital of central Transylvania and largest Romanian city still in enemy hands. He broke a permanent fortified line which the Hungarians had been building since 1940 when Hitler awarded them the northern half of the Romanian province.

Lomza Encircled

His drive also directly threatened Arad, another important rail center 10 miles from Hungarian soil on the north bank of the Mures river. Cluj is a city of 100,000; Timisoara 90,000 and Arad 76,000.

Battle reports from north Poland said the major rail center of Lomza, 20 miles below East Prussia, was virtually encircled. The Germans were leaving a double-decker mine

Red Troops Reported
Ready To Enter Sofia

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Moscow, Sept. 13 (AP)—Powerful Russian tank forces and Romanian infantry emerged today from the western foothills of Transylvania and fought for control of the rail network radiating from Timisoara, 40 miles south of the pre-war Hungarian border and 75 miles north of the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade.

(The Paris radio said the Red Army had reached the outskirts of Sofia and that the Bulgarian capital was preparing a reception, having arrested all members of the former pro-Nazi government.)

Marshal Malinovsky's offensive was rolling forward during his brief absence to sign an armistice with Romania in Moscow and his Russian field to cover their slow retreat and were counterattacking sporadically with tanks and self-propelled guns, but Gen. G. F. Zakharov steadily gained ground.

(The German communiqué said today that Lomza has been "given up.")

The battle in the Balkans for Transylvania now is becoming a campaign to envelop Serbia (southern Yugoslavia) from the north and reach the Tisza river, which flows north and south across the heart of the Hungarian plain, one of Hitler's major bread baskets.

At midnight, the Kremlin announced the capture of Deva, 85 miles from Hungary.

In capturing Deva, Russian and Romanian forces advanced 36 miles from Petroseti. The thrust gave them a firm grip on the main highway and railway into Budapest from Romania. The Cluj-bound spearhead seized Alud, 30 miles to the south.

Front reports said the campaign was meeting stiff but sporadic German and Hungarian resistance.

Almost half of Transylvania now has been conquered. About 12,000 square miles remain unclear.

Near Merger With Tito

To the south the Red Army appeared to be on the verge of joining up with Marshal Tito's partisan forces in Yugoslavia. A group of Soviet war correspondents was said to have left Moscow expecting to witness the junction.

The Red Army was fighting a hard battle with the Germans just south of the East Prussian border, but the daily Soviet communiqué gave few details. The Russians closing in on Lomza, gateway city to lower East Prussia, were meeting the most difficult kind of resistance from large German tank and artillery forces.

(The Soviet communiqué, one of the shortest in months, remained silent about broadcast German reports that gigantic new concentrations of Red Army troops and guns had begun a supreme drive aimed at breaking into East Prussia.)

(Moscow likewise said nothing about the Warsaw sector. The Germans have reported a concentrated attack on the outer approaches to Praga, eastern suburb of the Polish capital.)

Siegfried Wall
Outpost Seized

London, Sept. 13 (AP) — The German radio said tonight that the "Americans have captured an outpost of the west wall," but did not specify where the Siegfried Line had been dented.

The report said a German Grenadier counterattack halted the forward momentum of the drive. The context of the dispatch suggested that the action might have been east of the Verviers-Eupen sector of Belgium, where the United States First Army was reported about 10 miles south of the German communication city of Aache.

The Germans said Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's United States Third Army had thrust across the Moselle river south of Nancy and was driving toward Lunville in a great offensive "aimed at forcing the entire Moselle line on a broad front."

"Bitter fluctuating fighting is in progress, especially south of Nancy," the enemy said.

Supreme headquarters announced the Germans have hurled two counterattacks against American forces, one of which the First Army beat down in the vicinity of Limbourg, east of Liege, and a second which the Third Army was reported holding along the west bank of the Moselle river across from Corny, eight miles south of Metz.

The American Ninth Army has taken its place in the operations command in France. It was announced today, alongside the U. S. First, Third and Seventh Armies making the mightiest American force ever assembled on one fighting front.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson is commanding the Ninth Army, the announcement said. It was not disclosed immediately in what sector the Ninth Army was operating nor its relation to the overall command setup.

A warning that the full fury of modern war, which the Nazis have visited on the rest of the continent, now was about to break over the German homeland came from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Declaring "the battle of Germany is about to begin," the Allied commander-in-chief advised inhabitants of the Ruhr and Rhineland to withdraw immediately as those areas soon would become a theater of war.

In the area east of Liege United States First Army units drive at least six miles beyond the Belgian border city of Eupen yesterday and plunged into Germany. This operation, the second penetration of the Reich in less than 24 hours, carried to a point 10 miles south and slightly east of Aachen.

Moderate Opposition

The new penetration, described in a front dispatch as a "reconnaissance in force," was made by strong American armored elements which drove in from the west. Lt. Col. William B. Lovelady, of Soddy, Tenn., commanded this force of medium tanks, infantry and engineers.

The second crossing of the German border was 65 miles north and slightly west of the original invasion pathway taken by other American First Army units which swept (Please Turn to Page 5)

ALLIED SKILL OUTGENERATED NAZI LEADERS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

When we see Allied forces battling on the soil of an already defeated and tottering Germany, it gives to wonder that the United Nations in such comparatively short time, should have achieved this triumph, over a militaristic nation which came close to conquering much of the Eastern hemisphere—and maybe the whole world.

There are, of course, many reasons for our success but an important one is the superior skill of Allied generals who at decisive moments have outmaneuvered the best brains that Prussianism could produce. In recording this we get double satisfaction from the fact that German military leadership, taking it by and large, always has been of high order.

One doesn't make such a claim lightly, and before setting it down in this column I checked it against the observations of my friend Brigadier General Horace Sewell, the distinguished British military expert. He was, by the way, the youngest brigadier in the British Army in the last war and holds high decorations.

Ran In Groove

Sewell concurred without reservation. He agreed, too, that one outstanding reason for Allied superiority is the relative inflexibility of the German mind. It works along well defined lines—a powerful and smooth running machine, but in a groove.

We have an excellent illustration of this in one of the Reich's foremost generals—the famous Field Marshal Rommel, of desert fame. Rommel is a great soldier, and he was so characterized to me by none less than his conqueror in North Africa—General (now Field Marshal) Montgomery—when I was with the British forces not long after they had won the decisive battle of El Alamein. One thing that helped Montgomery take his opponent's measure was the shrewd observation that while the German was dangerously tricky he could be counted on to repeat the same tricks under certain circumstances.

The Russians, of course, provide us with many cases of outgeneraling the Nazis. Both Sewell and I picked the battle of Stalingrad as an outstanding example. This was the great engagement in which Hitler broke his back. The Moscovites won with what Sewell aptly describes as their elastic strategy of withdrawing and then striking when the Germans were over-extended.

Confused Germans

Then there have been numerous cases in which Allied generalship has delivered a telling blow at a vital point after leading the Germans to believe the attack was coming somewhere else. That happened when American troops on the memorable eighth of November, 1942, swarmed ashore at Algiers, Oran and Casablanca in French North Africa, while the frenzied Nazis were expecting the invasion to come at Dakar, in French West Africa. This also happened at Anzio in Italy.

Well, one could write a book on the superiority of Allied generalship but I'll give Sewell the last word with comment on D-Day in Normandy. He points out that this invasion was a surprise in two ways, first because the enemy expected the attack at another place, and second in the way the Allies built up their positions and supply bases on open beaches which were supposed to be invulnerable.

The general, in a way, is an Eisenhower fan—as who isn't?

Miami, Fla., Sept. 13 (AP)—Storm warnings were hoisted along the Carolina and north Georgia coasts today as a great Atlantic hurricane moved close to the threatening point.

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—Solid Fuels Administrator Harold Ickes says householders will be forced to cut coal consumption 10 to 12 percent of normal. Ickes appealed to coal consumers to endure some chilly fall mornings now in order to avoid discomfort later.

Kansas City, Sept. 13 (AP)—More than 500 persons jammed the chapel and filled the porch of a funeral home at services yesterday for James A. Reed, 32, former United States senator from Missouri. Reed died Friday at his summer home near Fairview, Mich.

Conshohocken, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP)—Joseph Czop, sipping coffee in a restaurant, struck up a conversation with a soldier.

"I just came home from the Pacific," said the soldier, George Zurawsky, of Chicago. "I lost my leg there and my buddy was killed right beside me. They took us out of the foxhole together."

"What was your buddy's name?" Czop asked.

"George Czop," said the soldier. It was Czop's son, killed in the Pacific June 1.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—A new blood-clotting substance so powerful that an amount the size of an aspirin tablet will clot a pint of blood solid in a few seconds was reported to the American Chemical Society today. The substance is made from prothrombin of beef blood plus calcium. It resembles the very efficient clotting substances now being made from Red Cross plasma.

London, Sept. 13 (AP)—Predicting that a new Allied surrender ultimatum would emerge from the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in Quebec, the Berlin radio told the German people today that to give in now would allow the Allies to gain victory "by sneaking through the backdoor."

Civilian Internment Camp, Saipan (AP) (Delayed)—Among the 4,000 persons in Saipan's first civilian internment camp there is but one white man—Vladimir Osmolovsky. Osmolovsky fled his homeland when the Koleshaks collapsed after the last war. A Siberia-bound Japanese force saved him and he was so grateful that he chose Japan as his home. He lived on Honshu island and sold cloth until his health failed. Then he went to Saipan.

American officers say they have no idea what will be done with him.

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—A sparse attendance had proponents of a $3,755,250,000 post war highway program more worried today than a militant Senate opposition crying for economy.

The 35 to 18 vote by which the backers beat back an attempt to postpone action until after the November election demonstrated strength for the bill, but in the Senate only four members above a bare quorum of 49 were present.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—The day may come soon when cooking a roast will be a matter of seconds instead of hours, when potatoes may be popped into an oven and baked instantaneously. NEW POWERFUL GASOLINE MADE

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—Secrets of the world's most powerful motor fuel, the almost fabulous triptane which has four times the horsepower of 100-octane gasoline, were announced to the American Chemical Society today by Dr. Charles F. Kettering, of General Motors.

Censorship about a year ago permitted announcement of triptane's existence. Today Doctor Kettering reported General Motors has in operation a medium-size plant producing five to 10 barrels of the precious stuff a day for military, and official aviation experiments. The method of manufacture is still a secret.

"A considerable number of engine tests," Doctor Kettering said, "demonstrated remarkable gains."

"With triptane containing added tetra ethyl lead they have amounted to as much as four times the power and to as much as 25 percent gain in fuel economy over 100-octane gasoline."

The new fuel for best results needs engines specially designed. General Motors is manufacturing it to experiment in inventing new types of automobile and airplane engines.

Ran In Groove

Sewell concurred without reservation. He agreed, too, that one outstanding reason for Allied superiority is the relative inflexibility of the German mind. It works along well defined lines—a powerful and smooth running machine, but in a groove.

We have an excellent illustration of this in one of the Reich's foremost generals—the famous Field Marshal Rommel, of desert fame. Rommel is a great soldier, and he was so characterized to me by none less than his conqueror in North Africa—General (now Field Marshal) Montgomery—when I was with the British forces not long after they had won the decisive battle of El Alamein. One thing that helped Montgomery take his opponent's measure was the shrewd observation that while the German was dangerously tricky he could be counted on to repeat the same tricks under certain circumstances.

The Russians, of course, provide us with many cases of outgeneraling the Nazis. Both Sewell and I picked the battle of Stalingrad as an outstanding example. This was the great engagement in which Hitler broke his back. The Moscovites won with what Sewell aptly describes as their elastic strategy of withdrawing and then striking when the Germans were over-extended.

Confused Germans

Then there have been numerous cases in which Allied generalship has delivered a telling blow at a vital point after leading the Germans to believe the attack was coming somewhere else. That happened when American troops on the memorable eighth of November, 1942, swarmed ashore at Algiers, Oran and Casablanca in French North Africa, while the frenzied Nazis were expecting the invasion to come at Dakar, in French West Africa. This also happened at Anzio in Italy.

Well, one could write a book on the superiority of Allied generalship but I'll give Sewell the last word with comment on D-Day in Normandy. He points out that this invasion was a surprise in two ways, first because the enemy expected the attack at another place, and second in the way the Allies built up their positions and supply bases on open beaches which were supposed to be invulnerable.

The general, in a way, is an Eisenhower fan—as who isn't.

Miss Parrish Speaks To Welfare Group

Miss Charlotte Parrish, child welfare service field supervisor from Harrisburg, described a study being made of child welfare services throughout the state in a talk before a picnic-dinner meeting of the executive committee of the Adams County Child Welfare Services, Tuesday evening at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Geigley, Fairfield.

About 25 persons, including wives and husbands of members of the committee, attended.

It was announced that a new sub-committee on publicity will be appointed. Mrs. Elizabeth Grieh, child welfare secretary here, told of the need for letting the public know of the services and problems of the child welfare organization in this county.

The Rev. Dwight F. Putnam, chairman of the group, presided. The affair was held in the Geigley home when rain cancelled plans for a picnic out of doors.

Yankees To Accept Orders Conditionally

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced today they would "accept" world series ticket orders conditionally.

President Ed Barrow said certified checks or money orders should accompany all orders. Prices for three games at Yankee Stadium, should the Yanks get into the series, are $18 for reserved seats and $21.60 for boxes. Last year's prices were $16.50 and $19.80, respectively.

The first three games of the series are scheduled in the park of the National league flag winner, with the remaining contests in the American league winner's stadium.

Miss Janet Topper, Gettysburg, and Robert Hartman, of Fairfield, were married Friday, September 8, in St. Paul's Reformed church parsonage, Westminster, Md., by the pastor, the Rev. J. Edmund Lippy. The single ring ceremony was used. They were unattended.

Rains Came Too Late For Crops

County Agent M. T. Hartman said today the rainfall was "too late to be of much help" to farmers. The corn, tomato and fruit crops already have suffered severely from the drought and that damage cannot now be repaired, he said.

The rain will be of benefit, however, in fall seeding, Hartman stated. The lack of moisture throughout the summer had hardened the ground on many farms so that it was "almost impossible" to work it properly. The rains today will moisten the ground sufficiently to make the seeding operations a much easier job, Hartman remarked.

Although some farmers already have prepared their fields for wheat and barley planting, a great many more who haven't already done so will receive help from the rain. The sowing of wheat generally begins about the end of September.

There was no official report available this afternoon on the depth of the rainfall here but Tuesday's drizzle and the heavy showers early this morning already are believed to have put the September rainfall total above that for any of the summer months.

Corle Managing Five Companies

Vernon B. Corle, manager of the Gettysburg and Biglerville water companies, has been named manager also of the water companies in Westminster, Bel Air and Ellicott City, Maryland, it was announced today.

The new appointments were effective September 1, and will require about half the time away from Gettysburg, Corle said today. He will continue his work with the two companies in Adams county.

Corle came to Gettysburg in November, 1940, from Montrose. Previously he had been stationed at Everett. He has been connected with the Water Utilities Service Corporation, which owns all of the local companies since 1929.

Corle is a member of the Gettysburg volunteer fire company and is secretary of the local Rotary club. He also is chairman of the fire company salvage committee. He and Mrs. Corle reside on East Middle street.

Cash Award For GHS 'Ag' Student

Milton Hoffman, Gettysburg R. 5, a student at Gettysburg high school, will receive Friday a cash award of $106 from the Firestone Tire and Rubber company for "excellence" in the completion of his vocational agricultural studies during the 1943-44 school year, it was announced by Richard C. Lighter, county vocational educational adviser.

Young Hoffman, who is a son of Mrs. Louise Hoffman, will receive the award at special exercises Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the high school auditorium. District Manager J. A. Straits, of the Firestone company, is expected to be present to make the award.

The prize is one of eight being awarded in Pennsylvania by the company to students participating in the vocational programs coming under the work of the Future Farmers of America association. Hoffman's project included swine raising and wheat, potato and corn crops. His instructor at the high school is Elmer Schriver, the vocational teacher.

Nazi Grenade Hit His Nose—Bounced

In the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post mention is made in an article titled "Their Escapes Were Miracles" of the narrow escape from death Pvt. Guy Kump of Gettysburg had during fighting in France.

The Post article says that Kump "went to the hospital with a slightly scraped nose. When asked how he got it he replied, 'Oh, a German hand grenade hit me there and bounced off into a foxhole before it exploded.'"

Miami, Fla., Sept. 13 (AP)—Storm warnings were hoisted along the Carolina and north Georgia coasts today as a great Atlantic hurricane moved close to the threatening point.

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—Solid Fuels Administrator Harold Ickes says householders will be forced to cut coal consumption 10 to 12½ per cent of normal. Ickes appealed to coal consumers to endure some chilly fall mornings now in order to avoid discomfort later.

Kansas City, Sept. 13 (AP)—More than 500 persons jammed the chapel and filled the porch of a funeral home at services yesterday for James A. Reed, 82, former United States senator from Missouri. Reed died Friday at his summer home near Fairview, Mich.

Conshohocken, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP)—Joseph Czop, slipping coffee in a restaurant, struck up a conversation with a soldier.

"I just came home from the Pacific," said the soldier, George Zurawsky, of Chicago. "I lost my leg there and my buddy was killed right beside me. They took us out of the foxhole together."

"What was your buddy's name?" Czop asked.

"George Czop," said the soldier. It was Czop's son, killed in the Pacific June 1.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—A new blood-clotting substance so powerful that an amount the size of an aspirin tablet will clot a pint of blood solid in a few seconds was reported to the American Chemical Society today. The substance is made from prothrombin of beef blood plus calcium. It resembles the very efficient clotting substances now being made from Red Cross plasma.

London, Sept. 13 (AP)—Predicting that a new Allied surrender ultimatum would emerge from the Roosevelt-Churchill conference in Quebec, the Berlin radio told the German people today that to give in now would allow the Allies to gain victory "by sneaking through the backdoor."

Civilian Internment Camp, Saipan (AP) (Delayed)—Among the 4,000 persons in Saipan's first civilian internment camp there is but one white man—Vladimir Osmolovsky, Onetime police chief at Vladivostok. Osmolovsky fled his homeland when the Kolehaks collapsed after the last war. A Siberia-bound Japanese force saved him and he was so grateful that he chose Japan as his home. He lived on Honshu island and sold cloth until his health failed. Then he went to Saipan.

American officers say they have no idea what will be done with him.

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—A sparse attendance had proponents of a $3,375,250,000 post war highway program more worried today than a militant Senate opposition crying for economy.

The 35 to 18 vote by which the backers beat back an attempt to postpone action until after the November election demonstrated strength for the bill, but in the Senate only four members above a bare quorum of 49 were present.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—The day may come soon when cooking a roast will be a matter of seconds instead of hours, when potatoes may be popped into an oven and baked instantaneously. High speed cooking, a war-born electronic process known as "megatherm heating," is still in its experimental phase, but proponents of the idea predict it will be "the next step in the evolution of the culinary art."

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP)—Paul D. O'Neill, 18, of Philadelphia, was speechless when he appeared in Lehigh county court to answer burglary charges—he asked the court in a written note for a postponement of the trial, explaining he lost his voice when arrested.

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP)—Police of eight states searched today for Dr. Walter Huchson, nationally known authority on deafness, who disappeared mysteriously Monday night. Huchson left his research laboratory in suburban Abington Memorial hospital saying he felt ill and was going home. He drove away, and his whereabouts have not been known since.

NEW POWERFUL GASOLINE MADE

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—Secrets of the world's most powerful motor fuel, the almost fabulous triptane which has four times the horsepower of 100-octane gasoline, were announced to the American Chemical Society today by Dr. Charles F. Ketterling, of General Motors.

Censorship about a year ago permitted announcement of triptane's existence. Today Doctor Ketterling reported General Motors has in operation a medium-size plant producing five to 10 barrels of the precious stuff a day for military, and official aviation experiments. The method of manufacture is still a secret.

"A considerable number of engine tests," Doctor Ketterling said, "demonstrated remarkable gains."

"With triptane containing added tetra ethyl lead they have amounted to as much as four times the power and to as much as 25 per cent gain in fuel economy over 100-octane gasoline."

The new fuel for best results needs engines specially designed. General Motors is manufacturing it to experiment in inventing new types of automobile and airplane engines.

May Sue Dealers Without Hearings

Harrisburg, Sept. 13 (AP)—Judge J. Paul Rupp has ruled in Dauphin county court that the Pennsylvania milk control commission can sue dealers for milk dealers on bonds posted to guarantee payments to producers without first citing the dealers for hearings.

In his opinion Judge Rupp said that "no demand prior to suit is necessary" on the part of the milk commission where dealers are in default.

Reformed Circle Aids Building Fund

At a meeting of the Zwingli Circle of the Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Sheely, East Stevens street, the group voted $100 to the church building fund. Sixteen members attended.

Mrs. W. A. Snyder was leader for the meeting. The study subject was "A Time for Greatness" with these members taking part in the discussion: Nancy Butt, Myrtle Sheely, Mrs. R. M. Spangler, Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Louise Hoffman.

The circle made plans for a rummage sale to be held in the near future. The date was not set.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday, September 26, at the church.

Pershing Is 84 Years Old Today

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—A gallant soldier and the song of the flag he fought for commemorate their birth today.

In the dawn off Port McHenry 130 years ago, Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star Spangled Banner." Today, at 84, General John J. Pershing reviewed a war of scant similarity with the conflict of 1914-1918.

Twenty-six years ago the AEF commander wrote at St. Mihiel: "Today is my birthday and that occasion, coupled with the victory has caused a deluge of telegrams."

"The number of prisoners," he added "is still increasing and will run over 15,000."

That figure in itself is but one index of the changes in the scope of world dissension. In the United States alone are more than 250,000 of the captured enemy.

Today, in his quarters at Walter Reed hospital where he is confined with a cold, the Missouri fighting man noted that many Americans, many of them sons of his men in 1918, are forcing the borders of western Germany for the first time since Napoleon Bonaparte.

ALLIED SKILL OUTGENERATED NAZI LEADERS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

When we see Allied forces battling on the soil of an already defeated and tottering Germany, it gives to wonder that the United Nations in such comparatively short time should have achieved this triumph over a militaristic nation which came close to conquering much of the Eastern hemisphere—and maybe the whole world.

There are, of course, many reasons for our success but an important one is the superior skill of Allied generals who at decisive moments have outsmarted the best brains that Prussianism could produce. In recording this we get double satisfaction from the fact that German military leadership, taking it by and large, always has been of high order.

One doesn't make such a claim lightly, and before setting it down in this column I checked it against the observations of my friend Brigadier General Horace Sewell, the distinguished British military expert. He was, by the way, the youngest brigadier in the British Army in the last war and holds high decorations.

Ran In Groove

Sewell concurred without reservation. He agreed, too, that one outstanding reason for Allied superiority is the relative inflexibility of the German mind. It works along well defined lines—a powerful and smooth running machine, but in a groove.

We have an excellent illustration of this in one of the Reich's foremost generals—the famous Field Marshal Rommel, of desert fame. Rommel is a great soldier, and he was so characterized to me by none less than his conqueror in North Africa—General (now Field Marshal) Montgomery—when I was with the British forces not long after they had won the decisive battle of El Alamein. One thing that helped Montgomery take his opponent's measure was the shrewd observation that while the German was dangerously tricky he could be counted on to repeat the same tricks under certain circumstances.

The Russians, of course, provide us with many cases of outgeneraling the Nazis. Both Sewell and I picked the battle of Stalingrad as an outstanding example. This was the great engagement in which Hitler broke his back. The Moscovites won with what Sewell aptly describes as their elastic strategy of withdrawing and then striking when the Germans were over-extended.

Confused Germans

Then there have been numerous cases in which Allied generalship has delivered a telling blow at a vital point after leading the Germans to believe the attack was coming somewhere else. That happened when American troops on the memorable eighth of November, 1942, swarmed ashore at Algiers, Oran and Casablanca in French North Africa, while the frenzied Nazis were expecting the invasion to come at Dakar, in French West Africa. This also happened at Anzio in Italy.

Well, one could write a book on the superiority of Allied generalship but I'll give Sewell the last word with comment on D-Day in Normandy. He points out that this invasion was a surprise in two ways, first because the enemy expected the attack at another place, and second in the way the Allies built up their positions and supply bases on open beaches which were supposed to be invulnerable.

Miss Parrish Speaks To Welfare Group

Miss Charlotte Parrish, child welfare service field supervisor from Harrisburg, described a study being made of child welfare services throughout the state in a talk before a picnic-dinner meeting of the executive committee of the Adams County Child Welfare Services, Tuesday evening at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Geisley, Fairfield.

About 25 persons, including wives and husbands of members of the committee, attended.

It was announced that a new sub-committee on publicity will be appointed. Mrs. Elizabeth Grieb, child welfare secretary here, told of the need for letting the public know of the services and problems of the child welfare organization in this county.

The Rev. Dwight F. Putman, chairman of the group, presided. The affair was held in the Geisley home when rain cancelled plans for a picnic out of doors.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. John Klein-felter; first vice president, Mrs. Gilbert Crabill; second vice president, Mrs. Ivan Breighner; secretary, Mrs. Charles Snyder; assistant secretary, Miss Viola Shank and treasurer, Mrs. M. O. Rice.

The hostess committee included Mrs. John Raffensperger, Mrs. Paul Pensinger, Mrs. Paul Settle and Miss Viola Shank.

Mrs. Keith Burger entertained the members of the Wednesday Bridge club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Chambersburg street. The club will meet next Tuesday afternoon with Miss Louise Bender, Baltimore street.

At a meeting of the Nurses Aide Corps Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: Captain, Miss Dorothy Poth; secretary, Mrs. Victor Goodstein; treasurer, Mrs. Marion Stambaugh. Miss Poth appointed the following to the social committee: Mrs. Bernard Murray, Mrs. Robert Kenworthy, Miss Lorraine Rider and Miss Dorothy White.

The board of Trinity Evangelical Reformed Church school, with guests from the Brethren and Presbyterian schools, will meet in the church tonight at 8 o'clock for a 15-minute period of meditation, followed by a special talk for religious workers by the Rev. Marshall E.

Brenneman, director of Camp Nakwakwa. The Rev. Howard S. Fox, host pastor, will close the service after which the Reformed Board will meet in business session.

Wedding

Hartman—Topper

Miss Janet Topper, Gettysburg, and Robert Hartman, of Fairfield, were married Friday, September 8, in St. Paul's Reformed church parsonage, Westminster, Md., by the pastor, the Rev. J. Edmund Lipsey. The single ring ceremony was used. They were unattended.

Rains Came Too Late For Crops

County Agent M. T. Hartman said today the rainfall was "too late to be of much help" to farmers. The corn, tomato and fruit crops already have suffered severely from the drought and that damage cannot now be repaired, he said.

The rain will be of benefit, however, in fall seeding, Hartman stated. The lack of moisture throughout the summer had hardened the ground on many farms so that it was "almost impossible" to work it properly. The rains today will moisten the ground sufficiently to make the seeding operations a much easier job, Hartman remarked.

Although some farmers already have prepared their fields for wheat and barley planting, a great many more who haven't already done so will receive help from the rain. The sowing of wheat generally begins about the end of September.

There was no official report available this afternoon on the depth of the rainfall here but Tuesday's drizzle and the heavy showers early this morning already are believed to have put the September rainfall total above that for any of the summer months.

Corle Managing Five Companies

Vernon B. Corle, manager of the Gettysburg and Biglerville water companies, has been named manager also of the water companies in Westminster, Bel Air and Ellicott City, Maryland, it was announced today.

The new appointments were effective September 1, and will require about half his time away from Gettysburg, Corle said today. He will continue his work with the two companies in Adams county.

Corle came to Gettysburg in November, 1940, from Montrose. Previously he had been stationed at Everett. He has been connected with the Water Utilities Service Corporation, which owns all of the local companies since 1929.

Corle is a member of the Gettysburg volunteer fire company and is secretary of the local Rotary club. He also is chairman of the fire company salvage committee. He and Mrs. Corle reside on East Middle street.

Cash Award For GHS 'Ag' Student

Milton Hoffman, Gettysburg R. 5, a student at Gettysburg high school, will receive Friday a cash award of $106 from the Firestone Tire and Rubber company for "excellence" in the completion of his vocational agricultural studies during the 1943-'44 school year, it was announced by Richard C. Lichter, county vocational educational adviser.

Young Hoffman, who is a son of Mrs. Louise Hoffman, will receive the award at special exercises Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the high school auditorium. District Manager J. A. Straits, of the Firestone company, is expected to be present to make the award.

The prize is one of eight being awarded in Pennsylvania by the company to students participating in the vocational programs coming under the work of the Future Farmers of America association. Hoffman's project included swine raising and wheat, potato and corn crops. His instructor at the high school is Elmer Schriver, the vocational teacher.

Nazi Grenade Hit His Nose—Bounced

In the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post mention is made in an article titled "Their Escapes Were Miracles" of the narrow escape from death Pvt. Guy Kump of Gettysburg had during fighting in France.

The Post article says that Kump "went to the hospital with a slightly scraped nose. When asked how he got it he replied, 'Oh, a German hand grenade hit me there and bounced off into a foxhole before it exploded.'"

HOSPITAL REPORT

Mrs. Edwin Longanecker, 38 East Middle street, has been admitted as a patient to the Warner hospital. Mrs. Lawrence Smith and infant daughter, Loretta May, South Washington street, have been discharged.

Displays $15 Values In Two World Wars

A display contrasting the purchasing power of $15 during World War I with its value in this war is in the front shop windows of Minter's grocery store, Baltimore street.

On one side of the window is 50 pounds of sugar—all that $15 would buy in the last war when sugar averaged 30 cents a pound. The other side of the window displays 50 pounds of sugar also, but in addition contains many other food and household items including flour, macaroni, cereal, canned fruits and vegetables, soap chips and scouring powder, all valued at $15. The display will end Saturday.

NEW POWERFUL GASOLINE MADE

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—Secrets of the world's most powerful motor fuel, the almost fabulous triptane which has four times the horsepower of 100-octane gasoline, were announced to the American Chemical Society today by Dr. Charles P. Kettering, of General Motors.

Censorship about a year ago permitted announcement of triptane's existence. Today Doctor Kettering reported General Motors has in operation a medium-size plant producing five to 10 barrels of the precious stuff a day for military, and official aviation experiments. The method of manufacture is still a secret.

"A considerable number of engine tests," Doctor Kettering said, "demonstrated remarkable gains."

"With triptane containing added tetra ethyl lead they have amounted to as much as four times the power and to as much as 25 per cent gain in fuel economy over 100-octane gasoline.

The new fuel for best results needs engines specially designed. General Motors is manufacturing it to experiment in inventing new types of automobile and airplane engines.

May Sue Dealers Without Hearings

Harrisburg, Sept. 13 (AP)—Judge J. Paul Rupp has ruled in Dauphin county court that the Pennsylvania milk control commission can sue sureties for milk dealers on bonds posted to guarantee payments to producers without first citing the dealers for hearings.

In his opinion Judge Rupp said that "no demand prior to suit is necessary" on the part of the milk commission where dealers are in default.

Reformed Circle Aids Building Fund

At a meeting of the Zwingli Circle of the Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Sheely, East Stevens street, the group voted $100 to the church building fund. Sixteen members attended.

Mrs. W. A. Snyder was leader for the meeting. The study subject was "A Time for Greatness" with these members taking part in the discussion: Nancy Butt, Myrtle Sheely, Mrs. R. M. Spanler, Mrs. Snuyder and Mrs. Louise Hoffman. The circle made plans for a rummage sale to be held in the near future. The date was not set.

The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday, September 26, at the church.

Pershing Is 84 Years Old Today

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—A gallant soldier and the song of the flag he fought for commemorate their birth today.

In the dawn old Fort McHenry 130 years ago, Francis Scott Key wrote the "Star Spangled Banner." Today, at 84, General John J. Pershing reviewed a war of scant similarity with the conflict of 1914-1918.

Twenty-six years ago the AEF commander wrote at St. Mihiel: "Today is my birthday and that occasion, coupled with the victory has caused a deluge of telegrams."

"The number of prisoners," he added "is still increasing and will run over 15,000."

That figure in itself is but one index of the changes in the scope of world dissension. In the United States alone are more than 250,000 of the captured enemy.

Today, in his quarters at Walter Reed hospital where he is confined with a cold, the Missouri fighting man noted that many Americans, many of them sons of his men in 1918, are forcing the borders of western Germany for the first time since Napoleon Bonaparte.

ATHLETICS MAY BE FACTOR IN PICKING CHAMP

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Connie Mack's lowly Athletics put the club on Detroit all season long, winning 16 of 19 from the pennant contenders, but Tigertown today was 100 per cent behind Philadelphia as the A's tangled with the Yankees in a resumption of American league competition.

If the Mackmen, a step out of the cellar, in seventh place, can trip New York, Detroit would vault into the lead by 6008. The Yankees Athletics hit was the only game scheduled from Monday to Friday out they were due for two more in New York over the week-end while Boston played Washington, St. Louis entertained Chicago and Detroit visited Cleveland.

American league teams, thinking of the World Series, took heart from the Cardinals' continued slump as the Red Birds dropped a coupleheader to Pittsburgh for their ninth defeat in their last 13 starts. The Pirates downed the Red Birds in seven of their last eight meetings and the other was a tie.

Started Browns Down

No matter which team struggles through to oppose the Cardinals in the series one fact was indisputable. It was the Athletics who started the Browns on the downward path. After Luke Sewell's crew had swept three of four from the Yankees and divided four with the Red Sox, Mr. Mack's Russ Christopher earned two decisions and putty Joe Berty grabbed another as the summer-long leaders began to crack. Next, St. Louis stop was Washington and another three out of four of the wrong side of the standings followed by disaster in Detroit.

With nine more tilts scheduled against New York, St. Louis and Detroit, the grand old man of baseball who thought this "might be the year" for his A's, still had a chance to dictate the outcome of the 1944 race.

Boston had finished his season business with the Athletics, scrambling for an even break in 22 games and St. Louis holds only a slender 10-9 edge. Only the Yankees, among the first division clubs, found Philadelphia good hunting, sweeping 13 of 19 and using the Mackmen as a lever to pry their way into the lead on Labor Day by a couple victories.

Cards Lose Pair

Attendance figures reflected the tightness of the flag chase with New York showing the way at 727,335 and the entire league drawing 4,125,600. Detroit was second with 648,642 and a clinch to take the lead with 14 more home games to go for the Yankees.

Rain washed out Cincinnati at Chicago and Philadelphia at New York. Cardinals' in the National, after the Phils had taken a 2-0 lead in three innings of the opener, Boston at Brooklyn also was postponed.

The Cardinals fell before the Pirates' Fritz Ostermueler, 5-3, in the first game and then dropped the nightcap, 6-5, as Preacher Roe took the decision over Bud Beryl.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—From somewhere in France, Cpl. Doug. Gary writes: "When we came to England the kids had no life at all. Games didn't interest them. But after a year or so all the kids were playing baseball, yelling, fighting like they do back home. . . . Even the service Tommies, RAF, etc., took up baseball in preference to cricket. Now the cricketers are afraid baseball will completely ruin their game. . . . From what we've seen of cricket, nothing could ruin it any more. The Columbus Red Birds, who set a record by winning the Little World Series the last three years in a row—and under three different managers—retained Nick Cullip as pilot this year and failed to make the American Association playoffs by 601 per cent.

Ross Corcoran, new NYC line coach, lives in Hartsville, N. Y., on Harvard drive. That's sticking to the "informal" league.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Lou Black, Associated Press: "By next week-end, the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic conference hopes to rid itself of feeling like the chap who came home with flowers and candy after his wife had asked him if he knew what day it was only to be told that what she had meant was the room rent was due."

SPORTSPURRI

Ked Smith, the grid Giants' line coach, is reported in line for a good job in the Chicago Cubs' front office next baseball season. . . . Team championship of Ferd Lipovetz's "709" boxing clubs of America goes to the Clinton, Iowa, club with a 3218 score. Frank Service of Philadelphia topped the list with three 700 or better series last season, including one even 800. . . . Ed Sprinkle, who has come some good work in the Bears' line this fall, is the same kid who teamed up with Don Whinnery in the Navy line last season and before that was all-border conference tackle at Hardin Simmons. Even Navy's new four-year ruling couldn't make him eligible after chemistry busted him out.

Stuh-Lomax has just been re-elected president of the New York sports broadcasters and Ten Husing is chairman of the overprinting committee. Believe it or not, that's no reference to Ted's language.

SERVICE DEPT.

After deciding to quit football and coaching all their games, the Camp Lejeune, N. C. Marines apparently have found a few players and now are trying to line up a schedule. . . . The Fort Warren Wyo., "Sentinel" says that there are only three major league baseball clubs left this season—the St. Louis Cardinals, Great Lakes Bluejackets and Iowa Seabawks. (Disseminating votes from Norfolk, Bainbridge, Sampson and the 7th Air Force). . . . Leading hitter in the 1944 semi-pro baseball tourney, which was full of ex-major leaguers, was Sgt. Grady Nation of the Greensboro, N. C. Ord. who never played a game of pro ball.

Looking up the pre-flight record of Ensign Donald C. Brandt, the Navy aviator who was rescued from the Japs by hanging onto a sub's periscope, Seabark scribbles found a picture of him on a wrestling mat trying to break a toe hold. From toe to toe, eh?

CARDS FAVORED IN CUP SERIES

(By The Associated Press)

With the Interstate league pennant safely tucked away, the Allentown Cardinals trained their guns on the league playoffs for the Governor's cup which opens tomorrow night with the first four finishers in the league race competing.

A strong favorite in the cup race, the Cardinals will meet third-place York while second-place Wilmington is matched against Lancaster's Red Roses in the best-of-five semi-final series.

Lancaster annexed the fourth place spot in the league playoffs when its doubleheader, scheduled with York last night, was rained out along with a single game between Hagerstown and Allentown. The cancellation of the games ended Hagerstown's mathematical chance of winning in the playoffs.

Final league standings, as compiled by the league president's office in Baltimore, follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Allentown	77	62	.554
Wilmington	74	64	.536
York	69	68	.504
Lancaster	66	72	.478
Hagerstown	65	73	.471
Trenton	63	75	.451

Cards Set New Fielding Record

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals whose out-fingering fielding was a big factor in their world's series defeat by the New York Yankees last year, are currently fielding at a pace never before equalled in major league baseball.

Including games of Sept. 11, the Cardinals boast a team fielding percentage of .922, a point higher than the major league record of .921 set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1940. Of the 5181 chances that came their way, they've committed only 92 mistakes, 25 less than the Reds in their record-breaking year.

Of their 132 games to date, the Cardinals have played errorless ball in 58, probably a record. Heading this group of glue-in-glove phenoms is Marty Marion, probably the best fielding shortstop in baseball, who has erred only 15 of his 631 chances.

Ortiz Keeps Crown In Castillo Fight

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (AP)—Mexico City's stout broad-shouldered Luis Castillo, seeking the world bantam weight championship, was able to go only four rounds and lost by a technical knockout to titleholder Manuel Ortiz. Although he forced the fighting for three rounds of an advertised 15-rounder last night, the 4-foot-11-inch hook artist fell victim to a badly split left eye, delivered in the fourth round by an aroused and fighting mad Ortiz.

3 JAPANESE BASTIONS ARE BADLY MAULED

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Sept. 13 (AP)—Japan's deteriorating island fortresses of Palau, Celebes and Halmahera, which shield the southern Philippines, have been dealt new sledgehammer blows by battleships, bombers and rocket-firing aircraft operating in concert from the southwest and central Pacific.

The rising pitch of destruction visited on the Japanese bastions was evident in communications from Admiral Chester Nimitz yesterday and Gen. Douglas MacArthur today.

P.L.H., 600 miles east of Davao, came under carrier aircraft attack Sunday (U. S. time). Next day, battleships and cruisers moved in to shell the islands. Planes dumped 120 tons of bombs on buildings, gun positions and coast defenses at Babelthup, Puluu and Angaur, principal islands of the group. Nimitz reported.

More than 150 rockets burst among defensive positions during the two-day carrier force attack, wrecking many installations.

Report Other Blows

The Tokyo radio said today that 10 U. S. heavy bombers had attacked the Kuriles Islands north of Japan yesterday morning (Tokyo time) while another force of Liberators struck at the Japanese base at Marcus Island some 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo, on Monday and Tuesday.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said two of the Kuriles raiders were downed and another damaged.

The entrance of battleships into the Palau races was reminiscent of pre-invasion blows at Guam to the northeast. Sixteen-inch battleship rifles, waiting until carrier planes and lesser surface warships had pounded the island for 10 straight days, opened up five days before Guam was invaded.

Palau's islands were raided on 17 days in August and on six days of this month.

The Nimitz communiqué made no mention of a carrier task force assault on the Central Philippines, as reported yesterday by radio Tokyo.

Record Assault

MacArthur's army executed a record 202-ton bomb assault Sunday on Dutch Celebes, the big island lying west of New Guinea and south of the Philippines. Near Manado on the northeast coast, air raids, runways were cratered and put out of service, barracks were burned and waterfront installations damaged. There was no interception.

Halmahera, between Celebes and New Guinea, suffered an attack by a strong force of Liberators, which worked their havoc on airfields, supply dumps and defense positions. Many fires were started. Again, there was no interception.

Ceram, south of Halmahera, was hit with 126 bomb tons which exploded on airfields, oil installations and coastal defenses. Heavy blazes were set off and large fuel tanks started. There three parked enemy planes were destroyed, but antiaircraft fire shot down an equal number of Allied aircraft.

During the Sunday and Monday strikes the Southwest Pacific raiders sank one freighter, beached another with a direct hit and destroyed or damaged four other vessels.

The reduction of Japanese forces trapped on British New Guinea continued, with MacArthur reporting 504 more killed and 116 taken prisoner. Twenty-five friendly natives were liberated by Allied troops.

Eagles Win Charity Grid Contest 22-0

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles defeated the merged Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Cardinals 22-0, in a pre-season charity game last night before 25,600.

The Eagles scored three touchdowns in the first period, the initial score coming on the ninth play of the game when Jack Hunkeler, a lateral and crosser, the goal.

With the Eagles leading 20-0, the two teams see-sawed back and forth in the mud wall the third period when the Cards-Pitts' Bob Thurston, as tackled in the end zone for a safety.

The game was sponsored by the Philadelphia League of Charities Inc.

ATHLETICS MAY BE FACTOR IN PICKING CHAMP

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Connie Mack's lowly Athletics put the chill on Detroit all season long, winning 10 of 19 from the pennant contenders, but Tigertown today was 100 per cent behind Philadelphia as the A's tangled with the Yankees in a resumption of American league competition.

If the Mackmen, a step out of the cellar, in seventh place, can trip New York, Detroit would vault into the lead by 9008. The Yankees' Athletics tilt was the only game scheduled from Monday to Friday but they were due for two more in New York over the week-end while Boston played Washington, St. Louis entertained Chicago and Detroit visited Cleveland.

American league teams, thinking of the World Series, took heart from the Cardinals' continued slump as the Red Birds dropped a doubleheader to Pittsburgh for their ninth defeat in their last 13 starts. The Pirates downed the Red Birds in seven of their last eight meetings and the other was a tie.

Started Browns Down

No matter which team struggles through to oppose the Cardinals in the series one fact was indisputable. It was the Athletics who started the Browns on the downward path. After Luke Sewell's crew had swept three of four from the Yanks and divided four with the Red Sox, Mr. Mack's Russ Christopher earned two decisions and jittery Joe Berry grabbed another as the summer-long leaders began to crack. Next St. Louis stop was Washington and another three out of four on the wrong side of the standings, followed by disaster in Detroit.

With nine more tilts scheduled against New York, St. Louis and Detroit, the grand old man of baseball who thought this "might be the year" for his A's, still had a chance to dictate the outcome of the 1944 race.

Boston had finished its season business with the Athletics, scrambling for an even break in 22 games and St. Louis holds only a slender 10-9 edge. Only the Yankees, among the first division clubs, found Philadelphia good hunting, sweeping 13 of 19 and using the Mackmen as a lever to pry their way into the lead on Labor Day by a double victory.

Cards Lose Pair
Attendance figures reflected the tightness of the flag chase with New York showing the way at 727,385 and the entire league drawing 4,185,000 customers. Detroit was second with 648,642 and a clinch to take the lead with 14 more home games to two for the Yanks.

Rain washed out Cincinnati at Chicago and Philadelphia at New York doubleheaders in the National after the Phils had taken a 2-0 lead in three innings of the opener. Boston at Brooklyn also was postponed.

The Cardinals fell before the Pirates' Fritz Ostermuller, 5-3, in the first game and then dropped the nightcap, 6-5, as Preacher Roe took the decision over Bud Byerly.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—From somewhere in France, Cpl. Doug Gary writes: "When we came to England the kids had no life at all. Games didn't interest them. But after a year or so all the kids were playing baseball, yelling, fighting like they do back home. Even the service Tommies, RAF, etc., took up baseball in preference to cricket. Now the cricketers are afraid baseball will completely ruin their game."

From what we've seen of cricket, nothing could ruin it any more. . . . The Columbus Red Birds, who set a record by winning the Little World Series the last three years in a row—and under three different managers—retained Nick Culp as pilot this year and failed to make the American Association playoffs by .001 per cent.

Ross Cherico, new NYU line coach, lives in Hartsdale, N. Y., on Harvard drive. That's the "informal" league.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Lou Black, Associated Press: "By next week-end, the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic conference hopes to rid itself of feeling like the chap who came home with flowers and candy after his wife had asked him if he knew what day it was only to be told that what she had meant was the room rent was due."

SPORTSPOURRI

Red Smith, the grid Giants' line coach, is reported in line for a good job in the Chicago Cubs' front office next baseball season. . . . Team championship of Ferd Lipovetz's "700" bowling clubs of America goes to the Clinton, Iowa, club with a 3218 score. Frank Serpico of Philadelphia topped the list with three 700 or better series last season, including one even 800. . . . Ed Sprinkle, who has done some good work in the Bears' line this fall, is the same kid who teamed up with Don Whitmire in the Navy line last season and before that was all-border conference tackle at Hardin-Simmons. Even Navy's new four-year ruling couldn't make him eligible after chemistry busted him out.

Stan Lomax has just been re-elected president of the New York sports broadcasters and Ten Husing is chairman of the overhauling committee. Believe it or not, that's no reference to Ted's language.

SERVICE DEPT.

After deciding to quit football and canceling all their games, the Camp Lejeune, N. C., Marines apparently have found a few players and now are trying to line up a schedule.

The Fort Warren Wyo., "Sentinel" says that there are only three major league baseball clubs left this season—the St. Louis Cardinals, Great Lakes Bluejackets and Iowa Seahawks. (Dissenting votes from Norfolk, Bainbridge, Sampson and the 7th Air Force). . . . Leading hitter in the 1944 semi-pro baseball tourney, which was full of ex-major leaguers, was Sgt. Grady Hutton of the Greensboro, N. C., Ord, who never played a game of pro ball.

Looking up the pre-flight record of Ensign Donald C. Brandt, the Navy aviator who was rescued from the Japs by hanging onto a sub's periscope, Seahawk scribes found a picture of him on a wrestling mat trying to break a toe hold. . . . From toe to tow, eh?

CARDS FAVORED IN CUP SERIES

(By The Associated Press)

With the Interstate league pennant safely tucked away, the Allentown Cardinals trained their guns on the league playoffs for the Governor's cup which open tomorrow night with the first four finishers in the league race competing.

A strong favorite in the cup race, the Cardinals will meet third-place York while second-place Wilmington is matched against Lancaster's Red Roses in the best-out-of-five semi-final series.

Lancaster annexed the fourth place spot in the league playoffs when its doubleheader, scheduled with York last night, was rained out along with a single game between Hagerstown and Allentown. The cancellation of the games ended Hagerstown's mathematical chance of landing in the playoffs.

Final league standings, as compiled by the league president's office in Baltimore, follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Allentown	77	62	.554
Wilmington	74	64	.536
York	69	68	.504
Lancaster	66	72	.478
Hagerstown	65	73	.471
Trenton	63	75	.451

Cards Set New Fielding Record

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, whose butter-fingered fielding was a big factor in their world's series defeat by the New York Yankees last year, are currently fielding at a pace never before equaled in major league baseball.

Including games of Sept. 11, the Cardinals boast a team fielding percentage of .982, a point higher than the major league record of .981 set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1940. Of the 5181 chances that came their way, they've committed only 92 miscues, 25 less than the Reds in their record-breaking year.

Of their 132 games to date, the Redbirds have played errorless ball in 58, probably a record. Heading this group of glue-fingered phenoms is Marty Marion, probably the best fielding shortstop in baseball, who has erred only 15 of his 631 chances.

Ortiz Keeps Crown In Castillo Fight

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (AP)—Mexico City's squat, broad-shouldered Luis Castillo, seeking the world bantam weight championship, was able to go only four rounds and lose by a technical knockout to title holder Manuel Ortiz.

Although he forced the fighting for three rounds of an advertised 15 rounder last night, the 4-foot 11-inch hook artist fell victim to a badly split left eye, delivered in the fourth round by an aroused and fighting mad Ortiz.

ATHLETICS MAY BE FACTOR IN PICKING CHAMP

By JACK HALL

Associated Press Sports Writer

Connie Mack's lowly Athletics put the chill on Detroit all season long, winning 10 of 19 from the pennant contenders, but Tigertown today was 100 per cent behind Philadelphia as the A's tangled with the Yankees in a resumption of American league competition.

If the Mackmen, a step out of the cellar, in seventh place, can trip New York, Detroit would vault into the lead by 9008. The Yanks-Athletics tilt was the only game scheduled from Monday to Friday but they were due for two more in New York over the week-end while Boston played Washington, St. Louis entertained Chicago and Detroit visited Cleveland.

American league teams, thinking of the World Series, took heart from the Cardinals' continued slump as the Red Birds dropped a doubleheader to Pittsburgh for their ninth defeat in their last 13 starts. The Pirates downed the Red Birds in seven of their last eight meetings and the other was a tie.

Started Browns Down

No matter which team struggles through to oppose the Cardinals in the series one fact was indisputable. It was the Athletics who started the Browns on the downward path. After Luke Sewell's crew had swept three of four from the Yanks and divided four with the Red Sox, Mr. Mack's Russ Christopher earned two decisions and jittery Joe Berry grabbed another as the summer-long leaders began to crack. Next St. Louis stop was Washington and another three out of four on the wrong side of the standings, followed by disaster in Detroit.

With nine more tilts scheduled against New York, St. Louis and Detroit, the grand old man of baseball who thought this "might be the year" for his A's, still had a chance to dictate the outcome of the 1944 race.

Boston had finished its season business with the Athletics, scrambling for an even break in 22 games and St. Louis holds only a slender 10-9 edge. Only the Yankees, among the first division clubs, found Philadelphia good hunting, sweeping 13 of 19 and using the Mackmen as a lever to pry their way into the lead on Labor Day by a double victory.

Cards Lose Pair

Attendance figures reflected the tightness of the flag chase with New York showing the way at 727,385 and the entire league drawing 4,185,000 customers. Detroit was second with 648,642 and a cinch to take the lead with 14 more home games to two for the Yanks.

Rain washed out Cincinnati at Chicago and Philadelphia at New York doubleheaders in the National after the Phils had taken a 2-0 lead in three innings of the opener. Boston got Brooklyn also was postponed.

The Cardinals fell before the Pirates' Fritz Ostermueller, 5-3, in the first game and then dropped the nightcap, 6-5, as Preacher Roe took the decision over Bud Byerly.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—From somewhere in France, Cpl. Doug Gary writes: "When we came to England the kids had no life at all. Games didn't interest them. But after a year or so all the kids were playing baseball, yelling, fighting like they do back home. . . . Even the service Tommies, RAP, etc., took up baseball in preference to cricket. Now the cricketers are afraid baseball will completely ruin their game. . . . From what we've seen of cricket, nothing could ruin it any more. . . . The Columbus Red Birds, who set a record by winning the Little World Series the last three years in a row—and under three different managers—retained Nick Culp as pilot this year and failed to make the American Association playoffs by .001 per cent."

Ross Chico, new NYU line coach, lives in Hartsdale, N. Y., on Harvard drive. That's sticking to the "informal" league.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Lou Black, Associated Press: "By next week-end, the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic conference hopes to rid itself of feeling like the chap who came home with flowers and candy after his wife had asked him if he knew what day it was only to be told that what she had meant was the room rent was due."

SPORTSPOURRI

Red Smith, the grid Giants' line coach, is reported in line for a good job in the Chicago Cubs' front office next baseball season. . . . Team championship of Ferd Lipovetz's "700" bowling clubs of America goes to the Clinton, Iowa, club with a 3218 score. Frank Serpico of Philadelphia topped the list with three 700 or better series last season, including one even 800. . . . Ed Sprinkle, who has done some good work in the Bears' line this fall, is the same kid who teamed up with Don Whitmire in the Navy line last season and before that was all-around conference tackle at Hardin-Simmons. Even Navy's new four-year ruling couldn't make him eligible after chemistry busted him out.

Stan Lomax has just been re-elected president of the New York sports broadcasters and Ten Husing is chairman of the overpowering committee. Believe it or not, that's no reference to Ted's language.

SERVICE DEPT.

After deciding to quit football and canceling all their games, the Camp LeJeune, N. C., Marines apparently have found a few players and now are trying to line up a schedule. . . . The Fort Warren, Wyo., "Sentinel" says that there are only three major league baseball clubs left this season—the St. Louis Cardinals, Great Lakes Bluejackets and Iowa Seahawks. (Dissenting votes from Norfolk, Bainbridge, Sampson and the 7th Air Force). . . . Leading hitter in the 1944 semi-pro baseball tourney, which was full of ex-major leaguers, was Sgt. Grady Hatten of the Greensboro, N. C., Ord, who never played a game of pro ball. . . . Looking up the pre-flight record of Ensign Donald C. Brandt, the Navy aviator who was rescued from the Japs by hanging onto a sub's periscope, Seahawk scribes found a picture of him on a wrestling mat trying to break a toe hold. . . . From toe to tow, eh?

CARDS FAVORED IN CUP SERIES

(By The Associated Press)

With the Interstate league pennant safely tucked away, the Allentown Cardinals trained their guns on the league playoffs for the Governor's cup which open tomorrow night with the first four finishers in the league race competing.

A strong favorite in the cup race, the Cardinals will meet third-place York while second-place Wilmington is matched against Lancaster's Red Roses in the best-of-five semi-final series.

Lancaster annexed the fourth place spot in the league playoffs when its doubleheader, scheduled with York last night, was rained out along with a single game between Hagerstown and Allentown. The cancellation of the games ended Hagerstown's mathematical chance of landing in the playoffs.

Final league standings, as compiled by the league president's office in Baltimore, follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Allentown	77	62	.554
Wilmington	74	64	.536
York	69	68	.504
Lancaster	66	72	.478
Hagerstown	65	73	.471
Trenton	63	75	.451

Cards Set New Fielding Record

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, whose butterfingering fielding was a big factor in their world's series defeat by the New York Yankees last year, are currently fielding at a pace never before equalled in major league baseball.

Including games of Sept. 11, the Cardinals boast a team fielding percentage of .982, a point higher than the major league record of .981 set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1940. Of the 5181 chances that came their way, they've committed only 92 miscues, 25 less than the Reds in their record-breaking year.

Of their 132 games to date, the Redbirds have played errorless ball in 58, probably a record. Heading this group of glue-fingered phenoms is Marty Marion, probably the best fielding shortstop in baseball, who has erred only 15 of his 631 chances.

Ortiz Keeps Crown In Castillo Fight

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (AP)—Mexico City's squat, broad-shouldered Luis Castillo, seeking the world bantam weight championship, was able to go only four rounds and lost by a technical knockout to title holder Manuel Ortiz.

Although he forced the fighting for three rounds of an advertised 15-rounder last night, the 4-foot 11-inch hook artist fell victim to a badly split left eye, delivered in the fourth round by an aroused and fighting mad Ortiz.

3 JAPANESE BASTIONS ARE BADLY MAULED

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Sept. 13 (AP)—Japan's deteriorating island fortresses of Palau, Celebes and Halmahera, which shield the southern Philippines, have been dealt new sledgehammer blows by battleships, bombers and rocket-firing aircraft operating in concert from the southwest and central Pacific.

The rising pitch of destruction visited on the Japanese bastions was evident in communiques from Adm. Chester Nimitz yesterday and Gen. Douglas MacArthur today.

Palau, 600 miles east of Davao, came under carrier aircraft attack Sunday (U. S. time). Next day, battleships and cruisers moved in to shell the islands. Planes dumped 120 tons of bombs on buildings, gun positions and coast defenses at Babelthiap, Pelelu and Angaur, principal islands of the group, Nimitz reported.

More than 150 rockets burst among defensive positions during the two-day carrier force attack, wrecking many installations.

Report Other Blows

(The Tokyo radio said today that 10 U. S. heavy and medium bombers had attacked the Kuriles Islands north of Japan yesterday morning (Tokyo time) while another force of Liberators struck at the Japanese base at Marcus Island, some 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo, on Monday and Tuesday.

(The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said two of the Kuriles raiders were downed and another damaged).

The entrance of battleships into the Palau raids was reminiscent of pre-invasion blows at Guam to the northeast. Sixteen-inch battleship rifles, waiting until carrier planes and lesser surface warships had pounded the island for 10 straight days, opened up five days before Guam was invaded.

Palau's islands were raided on 17 days in August and on six days of this month.

(The Nimitz communique made no mention of a carrier task force assault on the Central Philippines, as reported yesterday by radio Tokyo).

Record Assault

MacArthur's airmen executed a record, 202-ton bomb assault Sunday on Dutch Celebes, the big island lying west of New Guinea and south of the Philippines. Near Manado on the northeast coast, airdrome runways were cratered and put out of service, barracks were burned and waterfront installations damaged. There was no interception.

Halmahera, between Celebes and New Guinea, suffered an attack by a strong force of Liberators, which worked their havoc on airfields, supply dumps and defense positions. Many fires were started. Again, there was no interception.

Ceram, south of Halmahera, was hit with 126 bomb tons which exploded on airdromes, oil installations and coastal defenses. Heavy blasts were set off and large fire started. There three parked enemy planes were destroyed, but anti-aircraft fire shot down an equal number of Allied aircraft.

During the Sunday and Monday strikes the Southwest Pacific raiders sank one freighter, beached another with a direct hit and destroyed or damaged four other vessels.

The reduction of Japanese forces trapped on British New Guinea continued, with MacArthur reporting 504 more killed and 116 taken prisoner. Twenty-five friendly nationals were liberated by Allied troops.

Eagles Win Charity Grid Contest 22-0

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles defeated the merged Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Cardinals 22-0, in a pre-season charity game last night before 25,000.

The Eagles scored three touchdowns in the first period, the initial score coming on the ninth play of the game when Jack Hinkle took a lateral and crossed the goal.

With the Eagles leading 20-0, the two teams saw-sawed back and forth in the mud until the third period when the Cards-Pitts' Bob Thurston was tackled in the end zone for a safety.

The game was sponsored by the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities, Inc.

Rubber Riding Boots Are Freed

A minor revision in rubber foot wear ration regulations will release men's rubber riding boots certificate-free, the OPA said today.

This action applies only to a special type of all-rubber riding boot that is not in common use, and so far as is known, there are probably less than 1,000 pairs in dealers' stocks or being held in Customs' warehouses.

To be eligible for release, the rubber boots must fall within this classification: below knee-height, with inside pull-on loops, shaped leg and ankle, made over a special riding boot last.

Dealers are to apply to the OPA District Office for permission to sell boots of this type certificate-free.

Tommy Dorsey, Wife Held For Assault

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (AP)—Bandleader Tommy Dorsey, the "sentimental gentleman of swing," has been indicted along with his actress wife, Pat Dane, on charges of assaulting screen actors Jon Hall and Eddie Norris.

Also named in the county grand jury's charges of "assault by means of force likely to produce great bodily harm" to Hall and Norris was movie director Allen Smiley.

The three were indicted after they had declined to testify yesterday about a "battle of the balcony" last Aug. 5 at trombonist Dorsey's swank Hollywood apartment.</

FATHER TALKS
Fancied I was settled down, done with dance and song,
Grieved about the temples and a bulge about the waist.
Now I've got my chin up, and I'm working all day long,
Whistling coming home, with my duty fairly faced,
Planning things for mother—any way to please—
Promised him I'd do it when he went overseas.

Home is still and lonely now that he's so far away;
Lonelier for mother, though, than it is for me.
She goes 'round his bedroom twenty times a day,
I've got friends to talk to—fathers all are we.
Just to set her laughing now and then I tease.
Keeps her mind from fretting now he's overseas.

Got to keep my chin up, just for mother's sake.
Promised him I'd do it, when he went away.
Faith with that young soldier I'm trying not to break.
"Don't let mother worry!" last I heard him say.
Hope the show is funny! Always ill-at-ease
Seeing warfare pictures, now he's overseas!

Today's Talk

THE RHYTHM OF ROADS
Most people look upon a road as a means to an end, or just something over which to go, on the way to their destination. Tagore, it was said that the road was "a part of the destination."

I would call the road the world's brotherhood, for over it flow the lives of all human beings, regardless of station, race, color, nationality or financial standing. Memories have paved its every foot, and poetry has budded and bloomed all along its creeping roadside.

Winding, climbing, creeping its way downwards—over hills, mountains, curving dangerously through backwoods, crossing silent deserts, entering cities, hurrying and leaving them behind—on and on, the road endlessly leads. Yet there is a singing rhythm to a road that sets it apart and makes us want to travel it.

The rarely traveled road has a touch of mystery to it, especially the one that leads into the forest, to a deserted homestead, or to some mountain cabin. I like roads with surprises to them—a waterfall, a grist mill, a lake or river alongside, a saw mill, or just a solitary home far from any other habitation. These sights set one to thinking speculatively.

The roads to and into a country, whether of dirt, pavement or steel rails, are the arteries of its life. Keep them open, well repaired, and there will be health, commerce, and friendly communication throughout all their many various sources, and destinations.

Walt Whitman opens his famous book "Leaves of Grass" with a "Song to the Open Road," and begins thus:

"Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me
Leading wherever I choose."

No matter how strange a road may appear it has the uninvited essence of comradeship to it, for the road is impartial, a gazing, willing, hopeful friend—but you have to accost it! It's shy, like all who have been taken by surprise.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Brotherhood of the Poor."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Find Infantile Paralysis Here:
Two cases of infantile paralysis have been discovered in Gettysburg and Adams county.

Dorothy, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swope, 141 Water street and Gordon, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillary Smith, Hamilton township were diagnosed by Dr. Chester G. Crist, county medical inspector, as having the disease, and these diagnoses were confirmed on Sunday by Dr. Campbell, of Harrisburg.

Both of the patients are paralyzed in their right legs and their homes have been placed under thirty-day quarantine.

House Sold: The house of the late Mrs. A. J. McDonnell, Chambersburg street, was purchased at public sale on Saturday afternoon by Miss Lottie Little.

Goes To Washington: Miss Mae Belle Little, of Chambersburg street, who was employed on the staff of The Times for the past six years, left on Sunday for Washington, D. C., where she has accepted a government position in the Post Office department.

Closes Jewelry Store: John Sarbaugh, of Hanover, who has conducted a branch of the Sarbaugh Jewelry firm on Center Square since the summer of 1917, is engaged in packing stock and will close his business here in the near future to be employed in the main store at Hanover.

Hilltop Farm Sold: Fred McCammon, owner of Hilltop farm on the Fairfield road since 1911, has sold his property to T. Marshall Mehring.

Camping Party: Mrs. Emily Louise Ramer, Misses Zita, Grace and Mary Ramer, Carrie Codori, Fred Faber, Charles Myers, Sr., and Charles Myers, Jr., are camping along Rock Creek in Reek's woods.

PRO-ROOSEVELT DEMOCRATS IN TEXAS ON TOP

(By The Associated Press)
Pro-Roosevelt Democrats in Texas rolled on top today in the state's months-long wrestling match to determine whether party electors shall be bound to vote for the Roosevelt-Truman ticket in November.

For sensation and excitement, the Texans' Dallas convention took top lay in political developments which otherwise found partisan disputes on what the Republican victory in Maine means, a sharp attack on Thomas E. Dewey by one of President Roosevelt's cabinet members, and a continuation of Dewey's western travels.

In a vote counter's nightmare, the Texas Democrats voted 799 and 9-140 to 769 and 131-140 last night to give state convention seats to the 100-man pro-Roosevelt delegation from Dallas.

Not Reconciled
This was followed by a howling voice vote establishing Robert W. Calvert of Hillsboro as temporary chairman and keynoter. Calvert named as his No. 1 objective to be sure that Texas' 23 Democratic electors vote for President Roosevelt in November.

Whether they would have been in doubt since last May when the state convention then chose a set of electors and instructed them to vote for party nominees only on condition that the national convention actions be acceptable to Texans. Fifteen of those on the slate have let it be known they would not vote the Roosevelt ticket.

The goal of the pro-Roosevelt workers, who managed to take control last night, was to upset this arrangement and substitute electors with an iron clad pledge to support party nominees.

Three-Mile Gain
On the west coast Fifth Army troops drove ahead three miles to the Berlamacca canal, while farther east patrols pushed on to the vicinity of Sant'Apollino, 16 miles northwest of Florence.

The advance northeast of Florence toward the hard core of the Gothic line was a steady sweep. Troops which had thrust a short distance across the Sieve river Sunday and Monday advanced five miles yesterday.

The Germans apparently were ready to meet any assault on the Gothic line. In the vicinity of the Futa pass new pillboxes and gun emplacements have been established and many heavy anti-aircraft guns brought into position.

Delaying Action
In the rear areas of the Gothic line the Germans have prepared a delaying action line with heavy gun emplacements and anti-aircraft guns designed to facilitate an orderly retreat in the event of a breakthrough at any of the mountain passes.

The Allied advance in the central sector was supported during the night by heavy and medium bomber raids against the Bologna railroads, 30 miles beyond the Futa pass.

Medium, light and fighter bombers lashed communications in northwestern Italy and the Po valley as well as strong points, guns, troops and concentrations all along the battle front. The Mediterranean Allied Air Force yesterday flew 2,000 sorties, losing 18 planes.

$250,000,000 War Contracts Cancelled

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13 (AP)—Lt. Col. Robert C. Downie, chief of the Pittsburgh Ordnance district, said 435 prime war contracts totaling $250,000,000—or 25 per cent of the total orders placed—have been cancelled in the district as of Aug. 31.

Ordnance contracts here now are being terminated faster than new orders are being placed, Downie said yesterday but added that this does not mean that production has dropped.

"On the contrary," he said, "production is greater than ever and every plant holding an ordnance contract is working at top speed. However, we have reached a stage where continuing or repeat orders are being placed for material already in production."

From Jan. 1 to Aug. 31 property worth $6,500,000 has been disposed of in connection with contract termination settlements, Downie said.

Of Pittsburgh, are guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Dickson on West Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Preston Hull have returned to their home after attending the Knight Templar convocation in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Emma Golden and son, Levi, Hammond, Indiana, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Levi Bushman, of Steinwehr avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Miller, near Gettysburg, announce the birth of a son.

Banns of marriage have been published in St. Joseph's Church, Bonnevillie, between Miss Aurline Noel, Bonnevillie, and Joseph Kurtz, of York.

Miss Bessie Breighner, of West Middle street, attended the funeral of Miss Ruth Strasbaugh in Bonnevillie, Wednesday.

ALLIES NEAR FUTA PASS IN NORTH ITALY

By GEORGE BRIA

Rome, Sept. 13 (AP)—Fifth Army forces driving against the central sector of the Gothic line northeast of Florence are within a mile of Futa pass, one of the main avenues through the German defense line barring the path to northern Italy.

The pass was described as more strongly defended than Cassino, scene of some of the bitterest fighting in the Italian campaign.

Allied headquarters said the Fifth Army had reached Langnano and Poggio d'Elia Dogana, five and two miles, respectively, southwest of the pass.

Some of the fiercest fighting of the Italian campaign continued meanwhile on the Adriatic sector, where the Coriano-San Savino positions remained unchanged.

On the west coast Fifth Army troops drove ahead three miles to the Berlamacca canal, while farther east patrols pushed on to the vicinity of Sant'Apollino, 16 miles northwest of Florence.

DEMS MEET TO MAP '44 PLANS

Harrisburg, Sept. 13 (AP)—Pennsylvania Democrats gathered here today to open formally their 1944 presidential campaign with adoption of a state platform which a party spokesman said would be "strong, comprehensive and fighting" on national and state issues.

Chairman David L. Lawrence called together the state committee and others actively interested in the Democratic party "to perfect a hard-hitting, harmonious, co-operating state-wide organization."

Working overnight, a seven-member committee completed the party's declaration of policy on which it will seek to carry the Keystone state for Roosevelt a third time in November.

With Governor J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island as keynoter, the program for the two-hour state committee session also included addresses by Lawrence, U. S. Senator Joseph G. Guffey, Vice Chairman Mrs. Ruth Horting and party's nominees on the state-wide ticket.

Taking time out from conferences in advance of the gathering, Lawrence took issue with Governor Martin's claim Republicans will win in Philadelphia this year.

"They said that four years ago and eight years ago. They didn't carry it either time and they won't this time. I'd bet my life on it."

On the platform committee were Charles M. Finley, Philadelphia; J. Emmert Kaylor, Pittsburgh; Carl H. Fleckenstein, Bloomsburg; Ira W. Garman, Selmsgrove; Mrs. Harriet S. Gamble, Manchester; Patrick A. Duffy, Wilkes-Barre, and Mrs. Mary L. Osmun, Norristown.

PLAN GRADUAL RECONVERSION

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP)—The war will not be over for Philadelphia area (War) plants as soon as Germany capitulates, despite what happens in other parts of the country, regional war manpower commission director Frank L. McNamee says.

Conversion to peacetime production will be gradual, on an area basis, McNamee said Monday, adding that the labor supply will chiefly determine the rapidity with which the conversion can be effected.

MOVE TO ALTER CHILD LABOR ACT ENDS SUDDENLY

Harrisburg, Sept. 13 (AP)—Gov. nor Martin, Tuesday called off a Martin Tuesday called off a meeting of a special war powers committee of the general assembly after the war department withdrew a request for suspension of the commonwealth's child labor law for 90 days as an Emergency measure.

The governor's office said that under Secretary of War Patterson, who had requested modification of the state law, advised the executive he thought other arrangements could be made to speed up production of heavy duty tires at the Pennsylvania rubber company's plant at Jeannette.

Has War Powers
Patterson originally requested modification of the state law to permit employment of teen age workers for seven days a week at the Jeannette plant. The present law permits employment of 16 and 17 year-olds for six consecutive days only and limits the hours to 10 in any day and 48 in a week.

Governor Martin then promptly called a meeting of a special committee of legislative leaders for noon today to consider the request but cancelled it after receiving Patterson's withdrawal of the request.

The 1943 legislature gave Governor Martin, with approval of Republican and Democratic leaders of the legislature, authority to suspend or modify any state law the federal government certified was hindering the war program.

PLAN TO "UP" STEEL FORMULA
Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 13 (AP)—A prediction that the Little Steel formula would be revised upward within a week was given by CIO President Phillip Murray to delegates at the United Automobile Workers (CIO) convention today as they prepared to vote on the controversial no-strike pledge issue.

Murray, a member of the National War Labor Board, asked for "tolerance and understanding" at least until Monday, when he said the outcome of the Little Steel formula case would be revealed. The formula limits general wage increases to 15 per cent above January 1, 1942, levels.

Declaring in a convention speech yesterday that "some fairly well entrenched interests are bent on your destruction," Murray pleaded for unity in the ranks of labor, but a short time later, after a vociferous floor battle, delegates voted to shelve the no-strike resolution until today.

Ickes Raps Dewey
But while sharp lines were drawn in the no-strike issue, delegates evidenced considerable more unity on political matters by applauding generously an address last night by Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes supporting the candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Ickes was interrupted frequently as delegates chuckled at the secretary's satirical references to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as "the candidate in the blue serge suit" and "public tremor No. 1."

Dewey "has been dizzy trying to keep up with the parade as evidenced by public opinion polls," Ickes said, and "had had to reverse himself on almost everything." Now, Ickes argued, Dewey is in agreement with the administration on virtually all foreign and domestic issues.

'45 FARM GOALS OFFER PROBLEM

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones must soon announce farm production goals for 1945 and he is faced with a delicate task today as he balances the needs of the military, lend-lease and reconquered countries against the near-record crop U. S. farmers will harvest this year.

The September crop report showed an indicated 1944 production only two per cent below the 1942 record crop year. It said that continued favorable weather during the next few weeks may make this the record crop year in history.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes in his report Saturday said food production in the areas under Allied control, with the exception of Russia, is about a third above normal production, that war reserves have been established and when peace comes the reserves in the military theaters will become surplus.

Byrnes estimates that in the year following Germany's defeat our military food procurement will decline about 50 per cent and European requirements will be met without very large demands on United States production in 1945.

The Arabian peninsula is half as large as all Europe.

DEWEY IGNORES NEW DEAL JIBES

Valentine, Nebr., Sept. 13 (AP)—A west many of his conferees believe will go strongly Republican in November showed its old-time colors for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey with a rodeo today as the GOP presidential nominee shrugged off New Deal blasts at his opening campaign speeches.

The New York governor, who spent the night on the ranch of former Gov. Sam McKelvie near here, planned to take time off from politics to see steer bulldogging and roping contests before his special train leaves at sundown for Sheridan, Wyo.

Before that, however, he turned away with "no comment" the latest attack on his charge in a Philadelphia speech that the New Deal planned to keep men in the Army over long in order to lessen post-war unemployment.

Secretary of Interior Ickes, in a speech before the United Automobile Workers (CIO) at Grand Rapids, Mich., last night called this a "reckless and baseless" charge. The cabinet member declared that Dewey, "in his reckless quest for votes has stopped to pluck the heart-strings of every American mother, wife, sweetheart and child of every soldier and sailor throughout the world with a charge that is as false as any ever promulgated by Goebbels."

Neither did Dewey have any immediate answer to an assertion in congress by Rep. McCormack (D-Mass) that the GOP nominee had "hit below the belt" in an "attempt to create a false issue."

The next move is up to President Roosevelt. There is a growing sentiment among legislators to put Congress on record as supporting such a guarantee, but there is no prospect of House or Senate votes to that end very soon.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) yesterday took the latest step toward congressional approval of the news freedom objective. He introduced a resolution by which Congress would request the President to seek treaty guarantees with other nations for equal access to information and the right to transmit it without censorship at fair communications rates. That would contribute to the preservation of future peace, Taft said.

One way to accomplish the guarantee, he suggested, would be to write it into the charter of whatever world security organization eventually is created.

EXPECT ACTION ON NEWS POLICY

ELEVATOR MEN STAY ON STRIKE

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13 (AP)—Striking elevator operators whose walk-out forced thousands to tramp up and down long flights of stairways Tuesday reaffirmed their strike vote in their dispute with the Regional War Labor Board.

The strike affected approximately 400 service employees in the 20-story Frick building, the 19-story Frick annex, the 14-story Union Trust building and the eight-story Jenkins arcade.

A vote to continue the strike was taken after the Labor Board notified representatives of the employees the walkout was having "a damaging effect on war plants and agencies having offices in these buildings."

Union leaders said the strike was unauthorized. Strikers contended the Labor Board refused to approve agreements for a wage increase approved by both the employers and the union on the ground the workers already were receiving the going rate for workers in similar jobs.

FATHER TALKS

Fancied I was settled down, done with dance and song.
Greyed about the temples and a bulge about the waist.
Now I've got my chin up, and I'm working all day long,
Whistling coming home, with my duty fairly faced.
Planning things for mother—any way to please—
Promised him I'd do it when he went overseas.

Home is still and lonely now that he's so far away;
Lonelier for mother, though, than it is for me.

She goes 'round his bedroom twenty times a day.
I've got friends to talk to—fathers all are we.
Just to set her laughing now and then I tease.
Keeps her mind from fretting now he's overseas.

Got to keep my chin up, just for mother's sake.
Promised him I'd do it, when he went away.
Faith with that young soldier I'm trying not to break.
"Don't let mother worry!" last I heard him say.
Hope the show is funny! Always ill-at-ease
Seeing warlike pictures, now he's overseas!

Today's Talk

THE RHYTHM OF ROADS

Most people look upon a road as a means to an end, or just something over which to go, on the way to their destination. Tagore, it was, who said that the road was "a part of the destination."

I would call the road the world's brotherhood, for over it flow the lives of all human beings, regardless of station, race, color, nationality or financial standing. Memories have paved its every foot, and poetry has budded and bloomed all along its creeping roadside.

Winding, climbing, creeping its way downwards—over hills, mountains, curving dangerously through backwoods, crossing silent deserts, entering cities, hurrying and leaving them behind—on and on, the road endlessly leads. Yet there is a singing rhythm to a road that sets it apart and makes us want to travel it.

The rarely traveled road has a touch of mystery to it, especially the one that leads into the forest, to a deserted homestead, or to some mountain cabin. I like roads with surprises to them—a waterfall, a grist mill, a lake or river alongside, a saw mill, or just a solitary home far from any other habitation. These sights set one to thinking speculatively.

The roads to and into a country, whether of dirt, pavement or steel rails, are the arteries of its life. Keep them open, well repaired, and there will be health, commerce, and friendly communication throughout all their many various sources, and destinations.

Walt Whitman opens his famous book "Leaves of Grass" with a "Song to the Open Road," and begins thus:

"Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me
Leading wherever I choose."

No matter how strange a road may appear it has the uninvited essence of comradeship to it, for the road is impartial, a gazing, willing, hopeful friend, but you have to accost it! It's shy, like all worth is either shy or a bit speechless.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Brotherhood of the Poet."

Pro-Roosevelt Democrats in Texas rolled on top today in the state's months-long wrestling match to determine whether party electors shall be bound to vote for the Roosevelt-Truman ticket in November.

NEW WITNESS AGAINST GIRL

Mercer, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP)—Spectators at the trial of Janice Graham on a charge of murder in connection with the three Wilson farm slayings of last October 7 waited today for the testimony of one who, the prosecution hinted, would be a surprise witness.

The tall, studious-looking farm girl is charged with the shotgun killings of Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 78, and Robert McKay, 71-year-old farm hand, and the strangling of Mrs. Helen Wilson, 43, wife of her employer, Everett Wilson.

She showed no sign of emotion yesterday as Wilson himself and two other witnesses testified following an hour-long opening address to the jury by Assistant Prosecutor Donovan Henry.

It was during that address that Henry made his hint of a surprise witness.

"We will prove to you by a witness," said Henry, "that a sound was heard and after the sound was heard that witness went out and saw Bill Morell with a rope in his hand and that he was chasing cattle."

No explanation of the "sound" was made.

Morell, 21-year-old hired hand on the Wilson farm, is awaiting sentence of a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Helen Wilson. He was acquitted of charges in connection with the other deaths.

$250,000,000 War Contracts Cancelled

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13 (AP)—Lt. Col. Robert C. Downie, chief of the Pittsburgh Ordnance district, said 435 prime war contracts totaling $250,000,000 — or 25 per cent of the total orders placed—have been cancelled in the district as of Aug. 31.

Ordnance contracts here now are being terminated faster than new orders are being placed, Downie said yesterday but added that this does not mean that production has dropped.

"On the contrary," he said, "production is greater than ever and every plant holding an ordnance contract is working at top speed. However, we have reached a stage where continuing or repeat orders are being placed for material already in production."

From Jan. 1 to Aug. 31 property worth $6,500,000 has been disposed of in connection with contract termination settlements, Downie said.

ALLIES NEAR FUTA PASS IN NORTH ITALY

By GEORGE BRIA

Rome, Sept. 13 (AP)—Fifth Army forces driving against the central sector of the Gothic line northeast of Florence are within a mile of Futa pass, one of the main avenues through the German defense line barring the path to northern Italy.

The pass was described as more strongly defended than Cassino, scene of some of the bitterest fighting in the Italian campaign.

Allied headquarters said the Fifth Army had reached Langnano and Poggio d'Elia Dogana, five and two miles, respectively, southwest of the pass.

Some of the fiercest fighting of the Italian campaign continued meanwhile on the Adriatic sector, where the Coriano-San Savino positions remained unchanged.

Three-Mile Gain
On the west coast Fifth Army troops drove ahead three miles to the Berlamaca canal, while farther east patrols pushed on to the vicinity of Sant'Appollino, 18 miles northwest of Florence.

The advance northeast of Florence toward the hard core of the Gothic line was a steady sweep. Troops which had thrust a short distance across the Sieve river Sunday and Monday advanced five miles yesterday.

The Germans apparently were ready to meet any assault on the Gothic line. In the vicinity of the Futa pass new pillboxes and gun emplacements have been established and many heavy anti-aircraft guns brought into position.

Delaying Action
In the rear areas of the Gothic line the Germans have prepared a delaying action line with heavy gun emplacements and anti-aircraft guns designed to facilitate an orderly retreat in the event of a breakthrough at any of the mountain passes.

The Allied advance in the central sector was supported during the night by heavy and medium bomber raids against the Bologna railroads, 30 miles beyond the Futa pass.

Medium, light and fighter bombers lashed communications in northwestern Italy and the Po valley as well as strong points, guns, troops and concentrations all along the battle front. The Mediterranean Allied Air Force yesterday flew 2,000 sorties, losing 18 planes.

DEMS MEET TO MAP '44 PLANS

Harrisburg, Sept. 13 (AP)—Pennsylvania Democrats gathered here today to open formally their 1944 presidential campaign with adoption of a state platform which a party spokesman said would be "strong, comprehensive and fighting" on national and state issues.

Chairman David L. Lawrence called together the state committee and others actively interested in the Democratic party "to perfect a hard-hitting, harmonious, co-operating state-wide organization."

Working overnight, a seven-member committee completed the party's declaration of policy on which it will seek to carry the Keystone state for Roosevelt a third time in November.

With Governor J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island as keynoter, the program for the two-hour state committee session also included addresses by Lawrence, U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey, Vice Chairman Mrs. Ruth Horting and party's nominees on the state-wide ticket.

Taking time out from conferences in advance of the gathering, Lawrence took issue with Governor Martin's claim Republicans will win in Philadelphia this year.

"They said that four years ago and eight years ago. They didn't carry it either time and they won't this time. I'd bet my life on it."

On the platform committee were Charles M. Finley, Philadelphia; J. Emmert Kaylor, Pittsburgh; Carl H. Fleckenstein, Bloomsburg; Ira W. Garman, Selinsgrove; Mrs. Harriet S. Gamble, Manchester; Patrick A. Duffy, Wilkes-Barre, and Mrs. Mary L. Osmon, Norristown.

PLAN GRADUAL RECONVERSION

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP)—The war will not be over for Philadelphia area (War) plants as soon as Germany capitulates, despite what happens in other parts of the country, regional war manpower commission director Frank L. McNamee says.

Conversion to peacetime production will be gradual, on an area basis, McNamee said Monday, adding that the labor supply will chiefly determine the rapidly with which the conversion can be effected.

MOVE TO ALTER CHILD LABOR ACT ENDS SUDDENLY

(By The Associated Press)

Harrisburg, Sept. 13 (AP)—Gov. nor Martin, Tuesday called off a Martin Tuesday called off a meeting of a special war powers committee of the general assembly after the war department withdrew a request for suspension of the commonwealth's child labor law for 90 days as an Emergency measure.

The governor's office said that under Secretary of War Patterson, who had requested modification of the state law, advised the executive he thought other arrangements could be made to speed up production of heavy duty tires at the Pennsylvania rubber company's plant at Jeannette.

Has War Powers

Patterson originally requested modification of the state law to permit employment of teen age workers for seven days a week at the Jeannette plant. The present law permits employment of 16 and 17 year-olds for six consecutive days only and limits the hours to 10 in any day and 48 in a week.

Governor Martin then promptly called a meeting of a special committee of legislative leaders for noon today to consider the request but cancelled it after receiving Patterson's withdrawal of the request.

The 1943 legislature gave Governor Martin, with approval of Republican and Democratic leaders of the legislature, authority to suspend or modify any state law the federal government certified was hindering the war program.

PLAN TO "UP" STEEL FORMULA

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 13 (AP)—A prediction that the Little Steel formula would be revised upward within a week was given by CIO President Philip Murray to delegates at the United Automobile Workers (CIO) convention today as they prepared to vote on the controversial no-strike pledge issue.

Murray, a member of the National War Labor Board, asked for "tolerance and understanding" at least until Monday, when he said the outcome of the Little Steel formula case would be revealed. The formula limits general wage increases to 15 per cent above January 1, 1942, levels.

Declaring in a convention speech yesterday that "some fairly well entrenched interests are bent on your destruction," Murray pleaded for unity in the ranks of labor, but a short time later, after a vociferous floor battle, delegates voted to shelve the no-strike resolution until today.

Ikess Raps Dewey
But while sharp lines were drawn in the no-strike issue, delegates evidenced considerable more unity on political matters by applauding generously an address last night by Interior Secretary Harold L. Ikess supporting the candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Ikess was interrupted frequently as delegates chuckled at the secretary's satirical references to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as "the candidate in the blue serge suit" and "public tremor No. 1."

Dewey "has been dizzy trying to keep up with the parade as evidenced by public opinion polls," Ikess said, and "had had to reverse himself on almost everything." Now, Ikess argued, Dewey is in agreement with the administration on virtually all foreign and domestic issues.

'45 FARM GOALS OFFER PROBLEM

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones must soon announce farm production goals for 1945 and he is faced with a delicate task today as he balances the needs of the military, lend-lease and reconquered countries against the near-record crop U. S. farmers will harvest this year.

The September crop report showed an indicated 1944 production only two per cent below the 1942 record crop year. It said that continued favorable weather during the next few weeks may make this the record crop year in history.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes in his report Saturday said food production in the areas under Allied control, with the exception of Russia, is about a third above normal production, that war reserves have been established and when peace comes the reserves in the military theaters will become surplus.

Byrnes estimates that in the year following Germany's defeat our military food procurement will decline about 50 per cent and European requirements will be met without very large demands on United States production in 1945.

DEWEY IGNORES NEW DEAL JIBES

Valentine, Nebr., Sept. 13 (AP)—A west many of his conferees believe will go strongly Republican in November showed its old-time colors for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey with a rodeo today as the GOP presidential nominee shrugged off New Deal blasts at his opening campaign speeches.

The New York governor, who spent the night on the ranch of former Gov. Sam McKelvie near here, planned to take time off from politics to see steer bulldogging and roping contests before his special train leaves at sundown for Sheridan, Wyo.

Before that, however, he turned away with "no comment" the latest attack on his charge in a Philadelphia speech that the New Deal planned to keep men in the Army overly long in order to lessen post-war unemployment.

Secretary of Interior Ikess, in a speech before the United Automobile Workers (CIO) at Grand Rapids, Mich., last night called this a "reckless and baseless" charge. The cabinet member declared that Dewey, "in his reckless quest for votes has stopped to pluck the heart-strings of every American mother, wife, sweetheart and child of every soldier and sailor throughout the world with a charge that is as false as any ever promulgated by Goebbels."

Neither did Dewey have any immediate answer to an assertion in congress by Rep. McCormack (D-Mass) that the GOP nominee had "hit below the belt" in an "attempt to create a false issue."

EXPECT ACTION ON NEWS POLICY

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—Prompt American action toward proposing international guarantees of news freedom appeared probable today.

The next move is up to President Roosevelt. There is a growing sentiment among legislators to put Congress on record as supporting such a guarantee, but there is no prospect of House or Senate votes to that end very soon.

Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt may act on a foreign policy statement of news freedom which was completed by the State department last week and approved by Secretary Hull. Since it was not immediately made public it evidently went to the White House for final action.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) yesterday took the latest step toward congressional approval of the news freedom objective. He introduced a resolution by which Congress would request the President to seek treaty guarantees with other nations for equal access to information and the right to transmit it without censorship at fair communications rates. That would contribute to the preservation of future peace, Taft said.

One way to accomplish the guarantee, he suggested, would be to write it into the charter of whatever world security organization eventually is created.

ELEVATOR MEN STAY ON STRIKE

Pittsburgh, Sept. 13 (AP)—Striking elevator operators whose walk-out forced thousands to tramp up and down long flights of stairways Tuesday reaffirmed their strike vote in their dispute with the Regional War Labor Board.

The strike affected approximately 400 service employees in the 20-story Frick building, the 19-story Frick annex, the 14-story Union Trust building and the eight-story Jenkins arcade.

A vote to continue the strike was taken after the Labor Board notified representatives of the employees the walkout was having a "damaging effect on war plants and agencies having offices in these buildings."

Union leaders said the strike was unauthorized. Strikers contended the Labor Board refused to approve agreements for a wage increase approved by both the employers and the union on the ground the workers already were receiving the going rate for workers in similar jobs.

Elli Rock, disputes director of the board, said he informed Charles C. Levey, International representative of the AFL-Building Service Employees' International union, that the RWLB "will not and cannot be moved at the present time to recede from its position by strike pressure or otherwise."

Germany's Fall May Raise Gas Rations

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—No changes in gasoline rationing can be expected before the end of the war in Europe, the Office of War Information said today in a 7,000-word report on the crude oil and gasoline supply.

How much additional gasoline will be available for civilians will depend on how much the Army and Navy will need after Germany surrenders. Estimates now are being prepared by military authorities, OWI said.

The report says that when more civilian gasoline does become available, the rations for trucks and buses will be increased first.

Next in line will be "B" card holders who use their cars in the course of business—not merely between home and work—and who are getting as much as they need.

It is planned to equalize the maximum "B" rations in all regions, an action that would particularly help eastern "B" drivers who use gasoline in their work.

Gold cubes, called "B" were used as currency in ancient China.

Chapter 5
Susan stayed at home with Aunt Sarah for two days, then went back to the office. They were two days of struggle; hell. Everyone in Midvale dropped in to sympathize with Aunt Sarah and eye Susan with curious disapproval. Susan felt certain her Aunt's married attitude had convinced them her friendship with Erich le Favre had been a flimsy affair.

Erich had called twice the morning following the Council Meeting at Seabrook House. Both times Susan had replaced the receiver at the first sound of his voice.

It was Dr. Merrill who had decided Aunt Sarah was well enough to permit Susan to return to work. James' mother could run over and get her meals. In fact he suggested that Susan take her vacation. But Susan would not hear of it.

She was driven these days by a suburban obsession. She had to go on. She had tried to turn and face the women of her childhood.

Each morning at eight-thirty she was at her desk, each evening at five starting back to fix Aunt Sarah's supper, listen to her complaints, her carbed version of the town's latest comments on the Seabrooks. Time stretched ahead of Susan without meaning, the essence of life drained from it.

Like a sleepwalker Susan expertly carried out her duties, smoothing over Thorny's outbursts, re-checking his contracts, even listening to committees with fresh ideas for stopping the factory. Sometimes the townspeople refused to talk before her but more and more often, because of the very detachment of her attitude, they brought their ideas to her.

Tom Merrill called her up to his office one afternoon and ordered her to step on the scales. She was as shocked as he at the weight she had lost.

It was almost noon of a particularly intense and sultry day when Susan turned from the last of her morning dictation to answer the phone. She picked up her notebook and pencil along with the receiver. It would be the Shoreham Cement company with the figures they had promised. She had been waiting for the call.

His voice came over the wire pleasant, impersonal. "This is Erich le Favre, Susan."

It was so unexpected. An electric shock quivered through Susan, her head felt like a balloon suddenly shot full of helium. She heard her voice saying, "Yes."

"Will you tell Thorny the machinery is crated and will be shipped on the 19th if the building can be ready by then."

"I'll tell him when he comes in," Susan said. "Hell call you back. Are you in Detroit?"

"No, just got home. I'll drop in at closing time and we'll go out to the lake for a steak, uh?"

"I'm sorry, I'm busy tonight," Susan felt as though she were talking from a great distance. Her voice sounded cold and final.

"Not war a minute—there not closing the books before—"

"Was there anything else you wanted to tell Thorny?"

His voice was muffled. "There is such a thing as being too efficient. But if that's how you want it—"

"That's how," Susan heard the click of his receiver before she hung up. It was out. Finished.

Thorny came in and dropped heavily into his creaking swivel chair and ran his hand through his hair. "Ran into some trouble with the contractor this morning."

"You think the town's at the bottom of it?" Susan asked.

"Might be, might be. Thing is, though, I'd planned to interview those attorneys in that highway auto crash suit tomorrow morning. Now how in hell am I going to be here and in Detroit too?"

"Can't you go in for interviews tomorrow?" Thorny asked.

"Case comes up in a week. This contractor trouble may take that long." He dug the point of his pen into his blotter. "Don't suppose you'd feel up to those interviews now?"

"In Detroit?"

"You could do 'em as well as I could. Usually drag more details out than I do. But of course if you don't feel so good—"

"I feel fine!" Susan was surprised at the eagerness in her voice, the sudden feeling of light relief that went through her at the thought of several days away from Midvale on business. Only after she got back to her own desk did the thought come to her that Thorny's relief had been too effusive. She knew suddenly the trip was a deliberate set-up between Thorny and Merrill. Automatically she started into Thorny's office to refuse—then stopped. Maybe Merrill was right. Maybe she did need some days away from Midvale—and Erich le Favre!

Dealers Dare Not Deny Tire Sales

Tire dealers who sell to consumers were required today by the OPA to sell any new tire in their inventory to any person who presents a valid rationing certificate and the purchase price of the tire.

Dealers were also required to post daily inventories of their stock of tires with a cross-section size of 6.25 or larger.

This action is being taken, OPA said, because some dealers as stocks get short, are representing to ration certificate holders that they have no tires for sale, when in fact tires are available.

The result is that persons who have been found by their ration boards to be eligible for new tires are unable to use the tire certificates issued them. Today's action is designed to help correct this inequity, OPA said.

across the Duchy of Luxembourg to positions northwest of the German city of Trier.

Little news was forthcoming from the first invasion force excepting it had fought its way at least five miles into Germany, meeting only moderate opposition.

In his dispatch telling of the second penetration Associated Press Correspondent William Smith White wrote:

Germans Like Squirrels
"Thus far all the way up from the Marne our tactics have continually disorganized the Germans, although they are simple and well recognized tactics first advanced by the German military tactician Von Moltke himself.

"They are the tactics of advancing in multiple columns. Against this system the Germans have been like squirrels in a cage, seemingly perpetually surprised and running about aimlessly."

Fighting along the bloody Moselle river front in northeastern France, the United States Third Army hammered out new bridgeheads across that water barrier cracking the Nazis' powerful defenses.

At one point in the 17-mile stretch between Nancy and Pont-a-Mousson the Americans forced a full-scale German withdrawal under a hail of aerial bombs. The French border city of Strasbourg and the Rhine are east of the Americans in this area.

In the breakthrough between Nancy and Pont-a-Mousson Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's infantry and combat engineers fought in icy neck-deep water to protect the first footbridge across the stream.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg—Lester W. Fox, of Rocky Ridge, Md., recently was installed as president of the Francis X. Elder post No. 121, American Legion for the ensuing year. Other officers are: Clarence Frailey and Charles Gillelan, vice commanders; Lloyd C. Mackley, adjutant; Allan Rosensteel, financial officer, and Robert Fite, chaplain. President Fox said there are 93 members, and that he hopes to increase the membership during the year from the approximate list of 600 men and women now in the service from the territory under the jurisdiction of the local post. He further said that the original building debt of $4,000 has been reduced to $2,350, and that activities to reduce this amount will be continued throughout the year. The Auxiliary provided refreshments following the installation ceremonies.

Sgt. Leo Eckenrode spent a two-week furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckenrode, near St. Anthony's. He is being transferred to an unidentified station. A brother, Lewis, has been promoted to a sergeant. He is stationed at Fort Canby, Washington.

Mrs. Hanna Potter, Baltimore, is visiting Miss Rhoda Gillelan at her camp on Friends creek.

Miss Madeline Kump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manny Kump, North Seton avenue extended, has entered the Frederick city hospital as a cadet nurse.

Miss Valerie Shorb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shorb, 211 North Seton avenue, has entered the Mercy hospital at Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Matthew Joseph Paidakovich is visiting friends in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Landon E. Edwards, of Richmond, Va., spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Valerie Overman, 506 West Main street.

Mrs. Luella Annan who has been ill for several months at her home, 500 West Main street, is improving and hopes soon to be out of the house.

Pvt. Alvey Kline, of Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., is visiting his mother, Mrs. A. Kline, near town.

Germany's Fall May Raise Gas Rations

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—No changes in gasoline rationing can be expected before the end of the war in Europe, the Office of War Information said today in a 7,000-word report on the crude oil and gasoline supply.

How much additional gasoline will then be available for civilians will depend on how much the Army and Navy will need after Germany surrenders. Estimates now are being prepared by military authorities. OWI said.

The report says that when more civilian gasoline does become available, the rations for trucks and buses will be increased first.

Next in line will be "B" card holders who use their cars in the course of business—not merely between home and work—and who aren't getting as much as they need.

It is planned to equalize the maximum "B" rations in all regions, an action that would particularly help eastern "B" drivers who use gasoline in their work.

Chapter 6
Susan stayed at home with Aunt Sarah for two days, then went back to the office. They were two days of straight hell. Everyone in Midvale dropped in to sympathize with Aunt Sarah and eye Susan with curious disapproval. Susan felt certain her Aunt's martyred attitude had convinced them her friendship with Erich le Favre had been a flagrant affair.

Erich had called twice the morning following the Council Meeting at Scarbrough House. Both times Susan had replaced the receiver at the first sound of his voice.

It was Dr. Merrill who had decided Aunt Sarah was well enough to permit Susan to return to work. Janie's mother could run over and fix her meals. In fact he suggested that Susan take her vacation. But Susan would not hear of it.

She was driven these days by a stubborn obsession. She had to go on. She had tried to turn and face the demon of her childhood.

Each morning at eight-thirty she was at her desk, each evening at five starting back to fix Aunt Sarah's supper, listen to her complaints, her barbed version of the town's latest comments on the Scarbroughs. Time stretched ahead of Susan without meaning, the essence of life drained from it.

Like a sleepwalker Susan expertly carried out her duties, smoothing over Thorny's outbursts, re-checking his contracts, even listening to committees with fresh ideas for stopping the factory. Sometimes the townspeople refused to talk before her but more and more often, because of the very detachment of her attitude, they brought their ideas to her.

Tom Merrill called her up to his office one afternoon and ordered her to step on the scales. She was as shocked as he at the weight she had lost.

It was almost noon of a particularly intense and sultry day when Susan turned from the last of her morning dictation to answer the phone. She picked up her notebook and pencil along with the receiver. It would be the Shoreham Cement company with the figures they had promised. She had been waiting for the call.

His voice came over the wire pleasant, impersonal. "This is Erich le Favre, Susan?"

It was so unexpected. An electric shock quivered through Susan, her head felt like a balloon suddenly shot full of helium. She heard her voice saying, "Yes."

"Will you tell Thorny the machinery is crated and will be shipped on the 19th if the building can be ready by then."

"I'll tell him when he comes in," Susan said. "He'll call you back. Are you in Detroit?"

"No, just got home. I'll drop in at closing time and we'll go out to the lake for a steak, uh?"

"I'm sorry, I'm busy tonight," Susan felt as though she were talk-

Four Columns

Little news was forthcoming from the first invasion force excepting it had fought its way at least five miles into Germany, meeting only moderate opposition.

In his dispatch telling of the second penetration Associated Press Correspondent William Smith White wrote:

Germans Like Squirrels

"Thus far all the way up from the Marne our tactics have continually disorganized the Germans, although they are simple and well recognized tactics first advanced by the German military tactician Von Moltke himself.

"They are the tactics of advancing in multiple columns. Against this system the Germans have been like squirrels in a cage, seemingly perpetually surprised and running about aimlessly."

Fighting along the bloody Moselle river front in northeastern France, the United States Third Army hammered out new bridgeheads across that water barrier cracking the Nazis' powerful defenses.

At one point in the 17-mile stretch between Nancy and Pont-a-Mousson the Americans forced a full-scale German withdrawal under a hail of aerial bombs. The French border city of Strasbourg and the Rhine are east of the Americans in this area.

In the breakthrough between Nancy and Pont-a-Mousson Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's infantry and combat engineers fought in icy neck-deep water to protect the first foot-bridge across the stream.

Swimming is one of the world's first sports; it was popular in the Roman era.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg—Lester W. Fox, of Rocky Ridge, Md., recently was installed as president of the Francis X. Elder post No. 121, American Legion for the ensuing year. Other officers are: Clarence Frailey and Charles Gillelan, vice commanders; Lloyd C. Mackley, adjutant; Allan Rosensteel, financial officer; and Robert Fite, chaplain. President Fox said there are 93 members, and that he hopes to increase the membership during the year from the approximate list of 600 men and women now in the service from the territory under the jurisdiction of the local post. He further said that the original building debt of $4,000 has been reduced to $2,350, and that activities to reduce this amount will be continued throughout the year. The Auxiliary provided refreshments following the installation ceremonies.

Sgt. Leo Eckenrode spent a two-week furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckenrode, near St. Anthony's. He is being transferred to an unidentified station. A brother, Lewis, has been promoted to a sergeant. He is stationed at Fort Canby, Washington.

Mrs. Hanna Potter, Baltimore, is visiting Miss Rhoda Gillelan at her camp on Friends creek.

Miss Madeline Kump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manny Kump, North Seton avenue extended, has entered the Frederick city hospital as a cadet nurse.

Miss Valerie Shorb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shorb, 211 North Seton avenue, has entered the Mercy hospital at Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Matthew Joseph Paidakovich is visiting friends in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Landon B. Edwards, of Richmond, Va., spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Valerie Overman, 506 West Main street.

Mrs. Luella Annan who has been ill for several months at her home, 500 West Main street, is improving and hopes soon to be out of the house.

Pvt. Alvey Kline, of Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., is visiting his mother, Mrs. A. Kline, near town.

Germany's Fall May Raise Gas Rations

Washington, Sept. 13 (AP)—No changes in gasoline rationing can be expected before the end of the war in Europe, the Office of War Information said today in a 7,000-word report on the crude oil and gasoline supply.

How much additional gasoline will then be available for civilians will depend on how much the Army and Navy will need after Germany surrenders. Estimates now are being prepared by military authorities, OWI said.

The report says that when more civilian gasoline does become available, the rationing for trucks and buses will be increased first.

Next in line will be "B" card holders who use their cars in the course of business—not merely between home and work—and who aren't getting as much as they need.

It is planned to equalize the maximum "B" ration in all regions, an action that would particularly help eastern "B" drivers who use gasoline in their work.

Chapter 6 Susan stayed at home with Aunt Sarah for two days, then went back to the office. They were two days of straight hell. Everyone in Midvale dropped in to sympathize with Aunt Sarah and eye Susan with curious disapproval. Susan felt certain her Aunt's martyred attitude had convinced them her friendship with Erich le Favre had been a flagrant affair.

Erich had called twice the morning following the Council Meeting at Scarborough House. Both times Susan had replaced the receiver at the first sound of his voice.

It was Dr. Merrill who had decided Aunt Sarah was well enough to permit Susan to return to work. Janie's mother could run over and fix her meals. In fact he suggested that Susan take her vacation. But Susan would not hear of it.

She was driven these days by a stubborn obsession. She had to go on. She had tried to turn and face the demon of her childhood.

Each morning at eight-thirty she was at her desk, each evening at five starting back to fix Aunt Sarah's supper, listen to her complaints, her barbed version of the town's latest comments on the Scarbaughs. Time stretched ahead of Susan without meaning, the essence of life drained from it.

Like a sleepwalker Susan expertly carried out her duties, smoothing over Thorny's outbursts, re-checking his contracts, even listening to committees with fresh ideas for stopping the factory. Sometimes the townspeople refused to talk before her but more and more often, because of the very detachment of her attitude, they brought their ideas to her.

Tom Merrill called her up to his office one afternoon and ordered her to step on the scales. She was as shocked as he at the weight she had lost.

It was almost noon of a particularly intense and sultry day when Susan turned from the last of her morning dictation to answer the phone. She picked up her notebook and pencil along with the receiver. It would be the Shoreham Cement company with the figures they had promised. She had been waiting for the call.

His voice came over the wire pleasant, impersonal. "This is Erich le Favre, Susan?"

It was so unexpected. An electric shock quivered through Susan, her head felt like a balloon suddenly shot full of helium. She heard her voice saying, "Yes."

"Will you tell Thorny the machinery is crated and will be shipped on the 19th if the building can be ready by then?"

"I'll tell him when he comes in," Susan said. "He'll call you back. Are you in Detroit?"

"No, just got home. I'll drop in at closing time and we'll go out to the lake for a steak, uh?"

"I'm sorry. I'm busy tonight," Susan felt as though she were talking from a great distance. Her voice sounded cold and final.

"Now wait a minute—you're not closing the books before—!"

"Was there anything else you wanted to tell Thorny?"

His voice was nettled. "There is such a thing as being too efficient. But if that's how you want it—"

"That's how," Susan heard the click of his receiver before she hung up. It was over. Finished.

Thorny came in and dropped heavily into his creaking swivel chair and ran his hand through his hair. "Ran into some trouble with the contractor this morning."

"You think the town's at the bottom of it?" Susan asked.

"Might be, might be. Thing is, though, I'd planned to interview those witnesses in that highway auto crash suit tomorrow morning. Now how in hell am I going to be here and in Detroit too?"

"Can't you go in for interviews tomorrow or the next day?"

"Case comes up in a week. This contractor trouble may take that long." He dug the point of his pen into his blotter. "Don't souse you'd feel up to those interviews now?"

"In Detroit?"

"You could do 'em as well as I could. Usually drag more details out than I do. But of course if you don't feel so good—"

"I feel fine!" Susan was surprised at the eagerness in her voice, the sudden feeling of light relief that went through her at the thought of several days away from Midvale on business. Only after she got back to her own desk did the thought come to her that Thorny's relief had been too effusive. She knew suddenly the trip was a deliberate set-up between Thorny and Merrill. Automatically she started into Thorny's office to refuse—then stopped. Maybe Merrill was right. Maybe she did need some days away from Midvale—and Erich le Favre!

Dealers Dare Not Deny Tire Sales

Tire dealers who sell to consumers were required today by the OPA to sell any new tire in their inventory to any person who presents a valid rationing certificate and the purchase price of the tire.

Dealers were also required to post daily inventories of their stock of tires with a cross-section size of 8.25 or larger.

This action is being taken, OPA said, because some dealers, as stocks get short, are representing to ration certificate holders that they have no tires for sale, when in fact tires are available.

The result is that persons who have been found by their ration boards to be eligible for new tires are unable to use the tire certificates issued them.

Today's action is designed to help correct this inequity, OPA said.

THREE GERMAN CITIES TARGET OF AIR BLOWS

By HOWARD COWAN

London, Sept. 12 (AP)—Fleets of four-engine Allied aircraft thundered to the attack upon Europe today only a few hours after RAF heavy bombers had returned from massed night raids upon Frankfurt, Stuttgart and Berlin.

The German radio reported at midmorning the raiders were approaching southwest Germany from the west.

A short time later Berlin declared other Allied aircraft were sweeping in from the south, suggesting that the Mediterranean air force—which hurled 500 bombers at southern Germany yesterday—was again lending its weight to the assault.

It was the sixth successive day of mighty air assaults upon Germany and other European targets.

The overnight raid upon Frankfurt, now less than 90 miles behind the German front line, was carried out in particularly great strength and was aimed directly at smashing the flow of Nazi reinforcements to the front.

The RAF bomber command, it was disclosed, originally had planned to strike another target 40 miles further east, but changed its plans when it was learned the rail yards at Frankfurt were jammed with military traffic headed west.

Clear weather also favored the forces of British heavy bombers which struck at the great German engineering and war industry center of Stuttgart.

The attack on Berlin was carried out by Mosquitoes, which showered

Government Takes Twelve More Mines

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 12 (AP)—The Federal government was in charge of 12 more West Virginia coal mines today and has directed about 3,800 idle workers to return to their jobs at the strike-bound operations.

Interior Secretary Ickes, who a week ago seized the first six West Virginia mines closed by the mine bosses in their attempt to secure union recognition, received orders from President Roosevelt last night to take over the dozen operations which normally produce about 30,000 tons of coal daily.

This increased to 45 the total of mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia placed under government control in the strikes involving the UMW's United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees union.

Nineteen other West Virginia mines turning out approximately 41,000 tons per day and employing around 8,200 men remained closed throughout the state, and government seizure of these operations is expected.

The night attacks cost the RAF 25 aircraft. Intruder planes shot down two German night fighters.

A communiqué said that reconnaissance photographs showed that 269,000 incendiaries dropped that day at Frankfurt early yesterday early yesterday devastated "almost the entire city."

Thunderbolts, Lightning and Mustangs were out at dawn today, pinpointing targets across the German frontier on both sides of the Siegfried line and attacking enemy positions in the Nancy-Metz area and at Brest.

Romania And U. S. Sign Armistice

Moscow, Sept. 12 (AP)—Romania, Hitler's erstwhile Balkan Ally whose troops now are fighting beside the Russians, formally concluded an armistice agreement last night with the United Nations, the Soviet government announced today.

Terms of the agreement were not immediately made public.

U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, British Ambassador Sir Archibald John Clark Kerr and Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet Foreign Commissar, participated in the negotiations. A Romanian armistice commission arrived here more than a week ago.

Meanwhile, the Hungarian radio said in a wholly unconfirmed broadcast and believed German-inspired, that Bulgaria's infant King Simeon and Queen mother had fled to Syria.

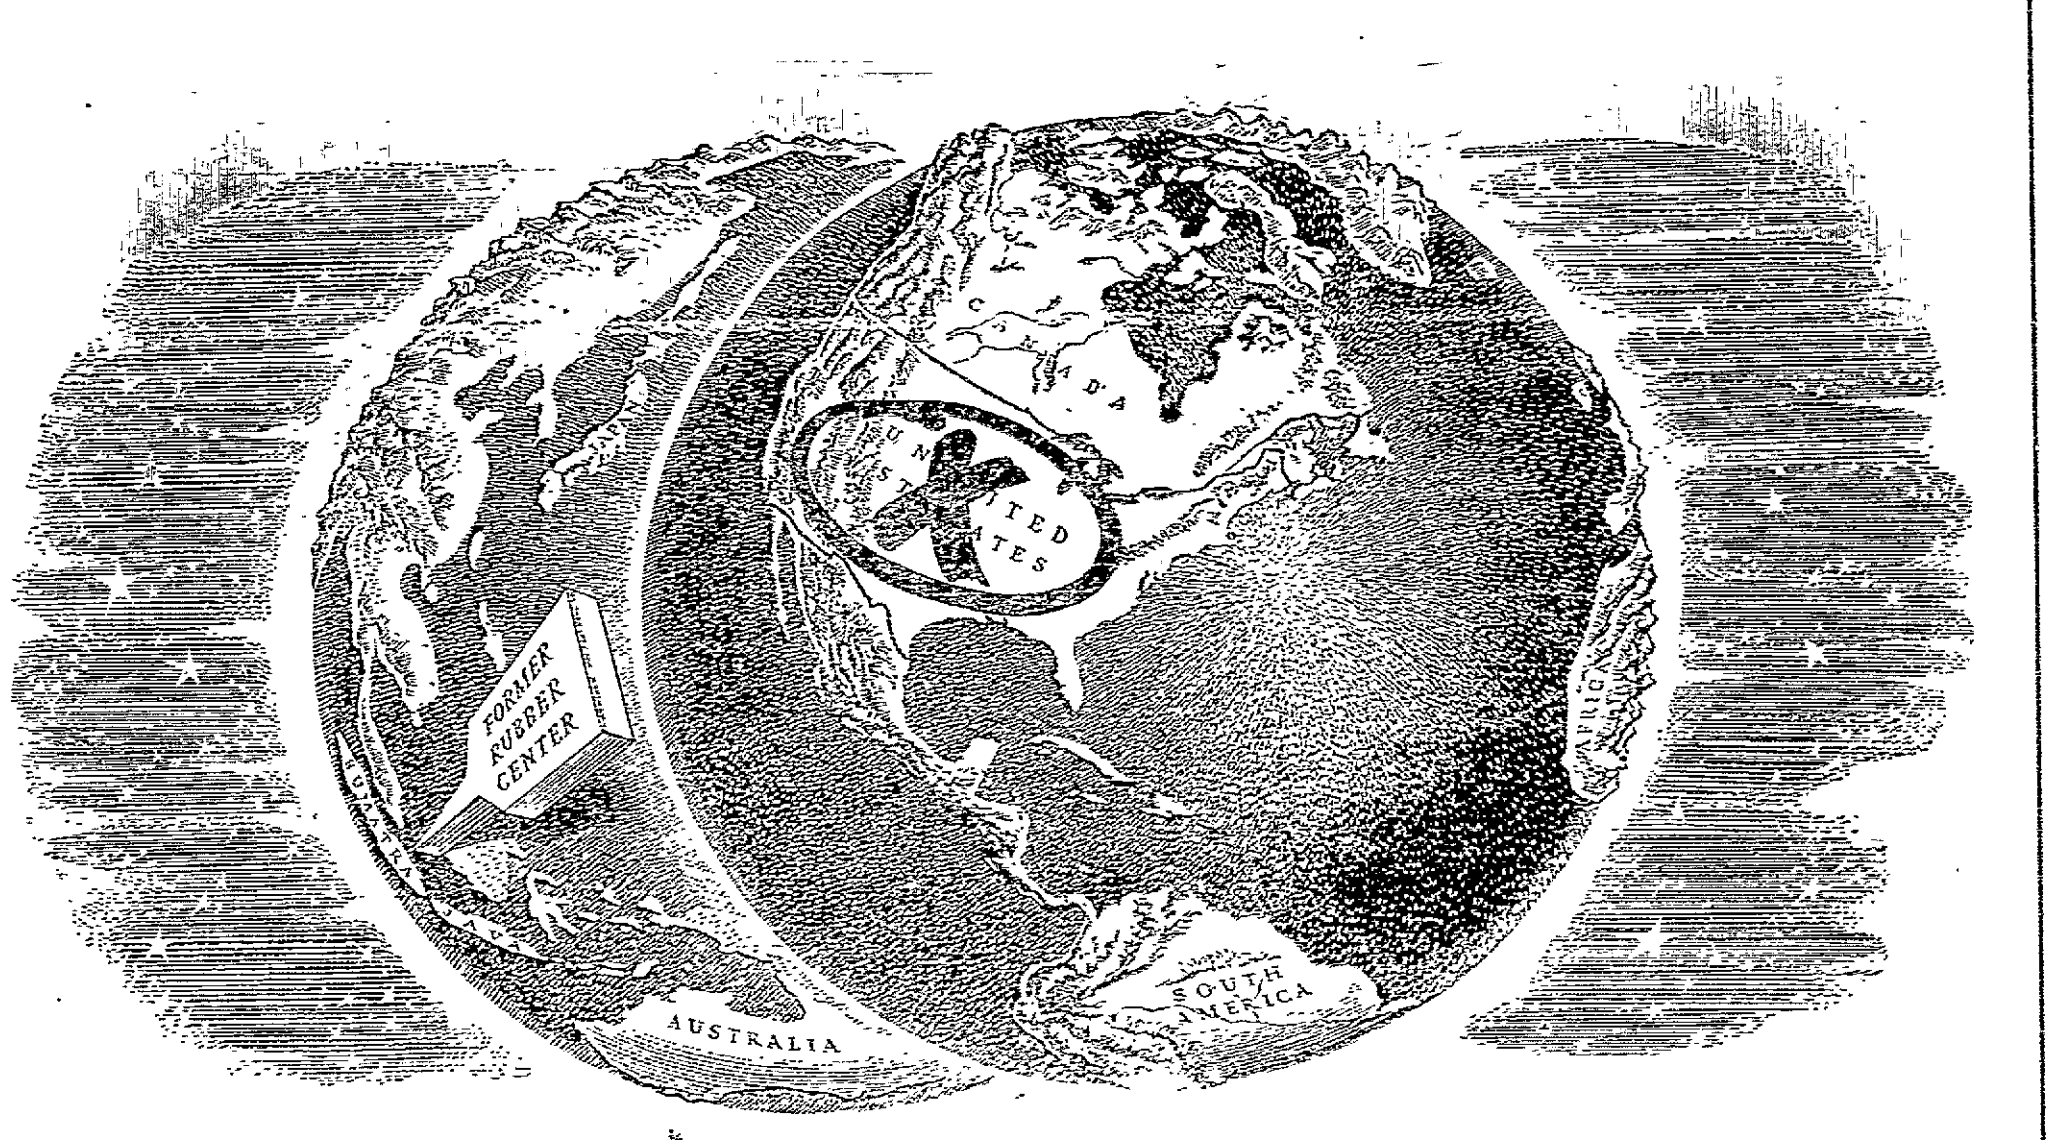

The first American labor strike was on a railroad in 1877, when workers protested a 10 per cent wage cut.

MANZINI HONORED
Philadelphia, Sept. 12 (AP)—Baptiste Manzini, center for the Philadelphia Eagles pro-football team, has been awarded the Robert J. French Memorial trophy, awarded annually in memory of the late executive sports editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, for outstanding performance and sustained effort in the paper's annual charity game.

MARKS TODAY'S RUBBER CENTER OF THE WORLD

Built in less than two years by America's synthetic rubber experts largely with the aid of alcohol supplied by the beverage distillers

WHEN the Japanese captured the chief natural rubber producing centers of the world, they thought they had dealt a death blow to America's war effort.

But in two short years the United States became the new rubber producing center of the world.

This great war miracle was achieved by America's brilliant synthetic rubber experts largely with the aid of alcohol supplied by our country's beverage distillers.

The rubber experts had the technical production knowledge that made synthetic rubber possible. The beverage distillers furnished the huge volume of alcohol required by the alcohol-butadiene process—the most practical at that time.

Today we are producing enough synthetic rubber to meet our needs for essential civilian and war rubber goods. Proof!...the request of Bradley Dewey, Rubber Director, to terminate his wartime powers.

Current production is at rate of 200,000 tons more annually than the entire country consumes for all purposes in 1940.

Thank you for your patience!

To aid in the achievement of this wartime miracle, America's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey nearly two years ago and produced nothing but industrial alcohol. They are fully aware of the inconveniences you faced during the 22 months when not a drop of whiskey was made in this country. For your extreme patience and understanding during that time, they are sincerely grateful and appreciative.

Conference of Alcoholic Beverage Industries, Inc.

CRISIS IN 1942
"If we fail to secure quickly a large new rubber supply our war effort and our domestic economy both will collapse."
—Baruch Report, Sept. 11, 1942

ACHIEVEMENT IN 1944
"A synthetic rubber industry has been established and is in complete operation. It is providing the nation with an ample supply of rubber."
—Bradley Dewey, Rubber Director, July 25, 1944

TRIBUTE
Commenting on the beverage distilling industry's contribution, a high W.P.B. official said on April 15, 1944...
1. "...it is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date, as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry."
2. "...synthetic rubber is from 6 to 9 months ahead of where it could have been if alcohol had not been available for butadiene production."
3. "...an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war."
—Dr. Walter G. Whitman

THREE GERMAN CITIES TARGET OF AIR BLOWS

By HOWARD COWAN

London, Sept. 13 (AP)—Fleets of four-engine Allied aircraft thundered to the attack upon Europe again today only a few hours after RAF heavy bombers had returned from massed night raids upon Frankfurt, Stuttgart and Berlin.

The German radio reported at midmorning the raiders were approaching southwest Germany from the west.

A short time later Berlin declared other Allied aircraft were sweeping in from the south, suggesting that the Mediterranean air force—which hurled 500 bombers at southern Germany yesterday—was again lending its weight to the assault.

It was the sixth successive day of mighty air assaults upon Germany and other European targets.

The overnight raid upon Frankfurt, now less than 90 miles behind the German front line, was carried out in particularly great strength and was aimed directly at smashing the flow of Nazi reinforcements to the front.

The RAF bomber command, it was disclosed, originally had planned to strike another target 40 miles further east, but changed its plans when it was learned the rail yards at Frankfurt were jammed with military traffic headed west.

Clear weather also favored the forces of British heavy bombers which struck at the great German engineering and war industry center of Stuttgart.

The attack on Berlin was carried out by Mosquitos, which showered

Government Takes Twelve More Mines

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 13 (AP)

The Federal government was in charge of 12 more West Virginia coal mines today and has directed about 3,800 idle workers to return to their jobs at the strike-bound operations.

Interior Secretary Ickes, who a week ago seized the first six West Virginia mines closed by the mine bosses in their attempt to secure union recognition, received orders from President Roosevelt last night to take over the dozen operations which normally produce about 30,000 tons of coal daily.

This increased to 45 the total of mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia placed under government control in the strikes involving the UMW's United Clerical, Technical and Supervisory Employees union.

Nineteen other West Virginia mines turning out approximately 41,000 tons per day and employing about 8,200 men remained closed throughout the state, and government seizure of these operations is expected.

The night attacks cost the RAF 25 aircraft. Intruder planes shot down two German night fighters.

A communique said that reconnaissance photographs showed that 260,000 incendiaries dropped on Darmstadt early yesterday early yesterday devastated "almost the entire city."

Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs were out at dawn today pinpointing targets across the German frontier on both sides of the Siegfried line and attacking enemy positions in the Nancy-Metz area and at Brest.

Romania And U. S. Sign Armistice

Moscow, Sept. 13 (AP)—Romania,

Hitler's erstwhile Balkan Ally whose troops now are fighting beside the Russians, formally concluded an Armistice agreement last night with the United Nations, the Soviet government announced today.

Terms of the agreement were not immediately made public.

U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, British Ambassador Sir Archibald John Clark Kerr and Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet Foreign Commissar, participated in the negotiations. A Romanian armistice commission arrived here more than a week ago.

Meanwhile, the Hungarian radio said in a wholly unconfirmed broadcast and believed German-inspired, that Bulgaria's infant King Simeon and Queen mother had fled to Syria.

The first American labor strike was on a railroad in 1877, when workers protested a 10 per cent wage cut.

MARKS TODAY'S RUBBER CENTER OF THE WORLD

Built in less than two years by America's synthetic rubber experts largely with the aid of alcohol supplied by the beverage distillers

WHEN the Japanese captured the chief natural rubber producing centers of the world, they thought they had dealt a death blow to America's war effort.

But in two short years the United States became the new rubber producing center of the world.

This great war miracle was achieved by America's brilliant synthetic rubber experts largely with the aid of alcohol supplied by our country's beverage distillers.

The rubber experts had the technical production knowledge that made synthetic rubber possible. The beverage distillers furnished the huge volume of alcohol required by the alcohol-butadiene process... the most practical at that time.

Today we are producing enough synthetic rubber to meet our needs for essential civilian and war rubber goods. Proof!...the request of Bradley Dewey, Rubber Director, to terminate his wartime powers.

Current production is at rate of 200,000 tons more annually than the entire country consumed for all purposes in 1940.

Thank you for your patience!

To aid in the achievement of this wartime miracle, America's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey nearly two years ago and produced nothing but industrial alcohol. They are fully aware of the inconveniences you faced during the 22 months when not a drop of whiskey was made in this country. For your extreme patience and understanding during that time, they are sincerely grateful and appreciative.
